"LIES ARE TAUGHT IN CHURCH"

Rev. Dr. McConnell Makes Startling Charges at Episcopal Congress in Boston.

By REV. A. E. GEORGE.

The Episcopal Congress, in session in Tremont Temple, never witnessed such an onslaught on its cherished opinions as was made to-day by the Rev. Samuel D. McConnell, D. D., pastor of All Souls' Church, New York.

The Rev. Dr. McConnell made his striking allegations when the topic, "The Alleged Incompatibility of Genius and Orthodoxy," was under discussion. He attacked the conventional and traditional methods of the Episcopal Church and the system of Sunday school teaching. He denounced loyalty to a creed and declared that it kept more people from church than it attracted, and he advocated a radical change in the whole policy of the church.

"They tell the children lies, the Protestant papers now in use in hundreds of our Sunday schools," said Dr. McConnell. "They present myths or legends as realities. They give descriptive measurements of a temple such as never was and a tabernacle such as never could be.

"They teach history which children's day school books show them is not true. They utterly ignore the results of a critical study of the Bible.

"Unsafe! Which is more unsafe, to tell children the truth or to tell fables in the name of religion, fables which they are as sure to find out as they are to grow?

"The world is amused and Christianity ought to be at the spectacle of our denominational divisions.

"What hinders reunion? It is this spurious loyalty to dogma, not a statement of truth, but as barriers of a society which is the obstacle to the reunion of the divided church.

"Think over the names of the Presidents of the United States, Governors of States, editors of great newspapers, great financiers, lawyers, literateurs, philanthropists, engineers, physicians. Nine-tenths of them hold themselves aloof from the church.

"How is it possible for a man of high intelligence to be orthodox in face of this fact?"

The Rev. Dr. McConnell was formerly rector of St. Stephen's Church, Philadelphia, where he was succeeded by the Rev. Dr. Worcester of Emmanuel Church, Boston.

He is considered a very radical churchman and is the author of the best histories of the American Episcopal Church.

TROOPS RULE PARIS, STRIKE IMPERILS ALL

PARIS, May 12—With thousands of postal and telegraph employes on strike, Paris to-day is practically isolated from the rest of the world. Troops are patrolling the streets and soldiers are guarding all the postoffices.

The strikers, who are government employes, are carrying the war into all parts of France, and there is danger that the entire country will be affected. Fears are expressed that the trouble will lead to a revolt and the ministry is in peril.

Wireless communication with Germany and Italy, by means of which the government had felt confident of being able to relieve the congestion, has been seriously interrupted.

Foreign visitors, including many Americans, are leaving Paris in great numbers in fear of violence. The authorities have taken measures to deal promptly with disturbances.

Soldiers in Sewers.

At 11 o'clock the exposed telegraph lines are being guarded by troops who have been stationed in huge sewers to prevent the cutting of wires. General Dalstein, governor of Paris, has 50,000 troops in reserve.

Eight strikers were arrested at noon today while trying to enter the Central Bureau.

Instead of trying to replace the railroad mail clerks who have gone out, letters are being carted before they are placed on the train, in accordance with a system previously worked out.

In some places a regular automobile service covering distances of from 100 to 200 miles has been arranged.

The strikers are making a poor showing. The first two deliveries of mail were effected without the aid of troops, but the distribution of the newspaper mail was not attempted.

Six thousand men went out immediately following the failure of the Deputies to comply with the demands of the postal employes. The Deputies delayed action, and the men decided that they must move at once or lose to the government. The postal employes wanted immediate action. When they did not get it they issued sweeping orders throughout France for a walkout.

Fear Bloody Outbreak.

The result is that France is face to face to-day with the gravest crisis in her industrial history. Thousands of soldiers are under orders to march at a moment's notice. A bloody Commune is feared if either side precipitates violence.

Large masses of infantry and cavalry have been thrown about the Place de la Republique, where are the strikers' headquarters. The public buildings and ministries are being guarded while the system of distribution of mail in effect last Summer when soldiers acted as postmen is being inaugurated.

At Marseilles the military and civil authorities have made arrangements for wireless communication, and automobiles will be pressed into service for the quick delivery of messages.

Six hundred postal employes at Bordeaux joined the strikers to-day.

Gloomy view of the situation.

The present strike is more or less of a continuation of the labor troubles which commenced on March 13.

The strikers are demanding the right to unionize. They also demand the dismissal of M. Simyan, under secretary of posts and telegraphs.

They want a civil service system conferred upon them, a revision of hours and more pay.

LAKE, SHORT OF PITCHERS

A letter from Doc Gessler, captain of the Red Sox, received at baseball headquarters to-day, says that he got out of bed for the first time yesterday and that he is very weak. Gessler will leave New York, where he has been ill for a week, to-day for his home in Indiana, Pa., to rest up for a few days. He will join the Red Sox in Detroit next Monday.

Manager Lake of the Red Sox wired President Taylor from Cleveland asking that Pitcher Joe Wood be sent on at once. Mr. Taylor went up to see Wood this afternoon to learn his exact condition, after which he will decide if it is advisable to comply to Lake's request.

The injury to Cicotte was a severe blow to Lake who counted on him pitching perhaps two games against the Detroit champions. Cicotte had the finding sign on the Tigers in their home town last season and Lake was confident that he would repeat this year. There is no telling how long the stubby pitcher will be out of the game as it is slow work getting an injured ankle around into shape.

While the knuckle-ball artist is on the hospital list Lake is short of pitchers and for that reason he wants the services of Wood. The kid pitcher has not handled a ball since the Red Sox were on their exhibition trip early in April. He returned to Boston on April 12 and since then has been under the care of Dr. W. A. Brooks, Jr., who performed an operation on his throwing arm.

ATTENDANTS AT ASYLUM GUILTY IN DEATH CASE

ASYLUM HORRORS PROVED

Murdock MacGregor (at top) and Roderick MacKenzie, attendants of Pierce Farm, found guilty of manslaughter in causing the death of Richard F. Mitchell, a patient.

Two Attendants at Pierce Farm Found Guily of Beating a Patient to Death.

The astounding condition that has prevailed at the Pierce Farm for the Insane, a State institution, was shown to-day when a jury found two attendants guilty of having beaten to death Richard F. Mitchell, one of the inmates.

The two convicted men are Roderick C. MacKenzie and Murdock C. MacGregor. They were found guilty of manslaughter. The maximum penalty is twenty years in prison.

The testimony of the chief witnesses for the State went to show that Mitchell, on his dying bed, told his mother, his brother and others that the attendants had brutally beaten him and jumped on him. An autopsy showed that his breast bone was crushed and eight ribs were broken.

The jury finds that the stories told by Mitchell of inhuman treatment by the attendants were true.

The defence was that other patients had beaten Mitchell to death.

After being out five and one-half hours yesterday afternoon the jury arrived at its verdict at 9:20 last night. The verdict was put in a sealed envelope. This was opened and the verdict was read in court at 9:33 to-day.

MacKenzie, who had not been called through the trial, was in the prisoner's cage when the jury came in. He was plainly nervous. He flushed and paled by turns and tapped the rail of the cage with his fingers.

MacGregor, who has been hailed and who was sitting outside the cage, seemed cool and unconcerned.

The jury came in before Judge Schofield in the first session of the Superior Criminal Court. The foreman handed the sealed verdict envelope to a court officer, who gave it to Clerk Campbell. The latter showed it to Judge Schofield, then read the jury's finding of "guilty."

Women relatives of the prisoners broke down and wept. The usual formality of having the jury affirm its verdict took but a few moments.

The bail of each was raised from $5,000 to $7,000. In default of these amounts both were committed to await sentence.

The case has attracted widespread attention because of the brutality charged against the two attendants, and because of the plea made by their counsel that Mitchell met his death as the result of violence from other patients.

Thus, according to the testimony of the witnesses for the State and the contention of the defence, there seems to be no doubt but that Mitchell was the victim of violence, either from attendants or others in the institution.

Mitchell, who was thirty-nine years old and had been a compositor on Boston newspapers, was sent to Pierce Farm in West Roxbury on March 12, suffering from a mental ailment. On March 25 he died. The prosecution alleges that on March 18 Mitchell was taken to the bathroom by the two defendants, after he had called them vile names, and that then Mitchell was assaulted fatally, the autopsy showing that eight ribs on one side of his body had been fractured and one on the other side. The breastbone was also broken.

All the evidence was in Monday afternoon, but District Attorney Hill, in rebuttal, wanted to have Stenographer Edwin H. Hauver of the police department read statements alleged to have been made by the defendants to Captain Joseph Dugan while he was investigating the death of Mitchell.

HARVARD AND AMHERST IN HOT BATTLE

SOLDIERS FIELD, May 12.—Captain "Ned" Currier and the Harvard team, still sweeting over the defeat suffered from the Holy Cross nine at Worcester last Saturday, determined to take revenge on the Amherst men, with whom they played this afternoon.

The Princeton game comes on Saturday, and so the Crimson rooters, realizing that the team might get in the dumps because of the set-back from Holy Cross, turned out better than at any time this year.

Of course, this is the biggest game thus far. Amherst has a good team, having won from Virginia, Vermont and Massachusetts Agricultural College. Vermont defeated Holy Cross, so, following out the logic, Amherst looked pretty good to walop Harvard.

But if Hicks, who started the game, is not good enough, Hartford was ready on a second's notice.

Amherst did not give the Crimson team any consolation, for Vernon went on the mound and McHenry was held in reserve.

Because of Cub Harvey's injured leg Coach Louis Ploper did not make up his mind about using him till the very last minute. It was a case of Bob Brown or Cub, and Ploper was best on using the latter because of his hitting experience and generalship.

FEAR 3 YALE MEN DROWNED

NEW HAVEN, Ct., May 12.—Three Yale sophomores, William D. Bishop, Jr., of Bridgeport; Chester Cornish of Yonkers, and Everett Oyler Waters of New York City, went sailing yesterday, and have not returned. Search was started on Long Island Sound, but it has revealed no trace of them.

It is feared that they have been drowned. The sailboat was seen off Woodmont about 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, heading for New Haven Harbor, but has not been seen since.

Young Bishop is the son of Vice-President Bishop of the New Haven road. All the members of the party are Sophomores in the class of 1911.

YANKEE COLT MADE FAVORITE FOR THE DERBY

NEWMARKET, England, May 2.—American horses had a field day on the British turf to-day, three of them leading their fields home in the classiest races on the card.

Sir Martin made his first appearance on the English track, and by a fine performance was the Welter plate handicap, besting a field o eight good horses. e won the race in such commanding style that he has become favorite in the coming Derby, his price being cut down to 5 to 1.

Sir Martin carried the weight of 130 pounds, which was 36 pounds more than some of the others carried. The race was over a mile course, for threeyear-olds and upward.

Sir Martin, the speed marvel, won a fortune for John E. Madden on the American turf last Summer, including in his string of victories the defeat of James R. Keene's Mackette, the winner of the Futurity. Sir Martin was afterwards sold to Louis Winans for $90,000.

Sir Martin's performance is the engrossing topic among turf followers. His victory has stood Bayardo, Atheris considered invincible, out of favor, and to-day there is little doubt, if his condition shows no falling off, that he will start on Derby day the most heavily backed foreign horse that ever was entered in the great British classic.

Louis Winans, the present owner of Sir Martin is one of England's greatest all around horsemen. With a fortune of many millions of dollars he has the means as well as the inclination to maintain one of the best appointed stables in the kingdom.

The second American victory was won by Harry Payne Whitney's Sixty II., which took the Chesterfield maiden plate of $1,000 from a field of twelve. Sheets Martin, the American jockey, piloted both Sir Martin and Mr. Whitney's horse.

James R. Keene's Esperanto, was the third American winner.

IRON TIED TO TRACK TO WRECK TRAIN

What is believed to have been a determined attempt to wreck a train on the Fresh Pond division of the Boston & Maine was discovered by Patrolman Frank McLaughlin of the Cambridge department. McLaughlin, while walking along the tracks at Fresh Pond, saw a large piece of iron across the inward bound tracks. The iron, which weighed about fifty pounds, was tied to the rest with pieces of rope. On the roadbed were the imprints of shoes. McLaughlin traced them for some distance, but they were lost in the parkway.

BRYAN TO TOUR WORLD.

MINNEAPOLIS, May 12.—William Jennings Bryan is planning another world tour. Mr. Bryan would give no details of the trip further than to admit that he was contemplating one. "I will not go hunting alone, though," he laughingly admitted.

William W. Rockhill of the District of Columbia, to be ambassador to Russia.

Charles Denby of Indiana, to be consul-general at Vienna.

William A. Rublee of Wisconsin, to be consul-general at Hong Kong.

Amos P. Wilder of Wisconsin, to be consul-general at Shanghai.

General George B. Davis, U. S. A., to be judge advocate general of the army.

DOVES SEEK TO RECOVER ADVANTAGE ON THE REDS

The Doves, shaken up by Bowerman and warned to pitch ball, went into the game with Cincinnati this afternoon with a high resolve to beat the Perkopolitans out in the second division. Fair weather brought out a good crowd.

At Cleveland the Red Sox lined up against the Naps, and it looked well for the hopes of the Boston pennant chasers.

AMERICAN LEAGUE GROUNDS, Cleveland, May 12.—That first mouthful tasted so nice the Red Sox want to clean up the whole Cleveland platter. The Boston players came on the field this afternoon licking their chops and smiling broadly. They at once sharpened their bats and made other preparations to carve up the Naps in the second meal.

Fred Lake intended to pitch Cicotte yesterday and Arellanes to-day, but the injury to the knuckle ball man, which forced the Mexican to finish the game, upset the manager's plans. He told Cy Morgan to warm up with Cheek and Ryan and promised to pick the best looker, that is, the best looker from a pitching standpoint, not from the angle of a judge at a beauty show.

Morgan, the hard luck pitcher of the Boston team, begged his manager to put him in the box to-day, and he promised if his team-mates would do a little hitting to win the game hands down. "Show me what you got," said the manager, picking up his big mitt.

The Cleveland fans have christened the Red Sox the "speed boys." They say they are the fastest aggregation that has ever played ball in Cleveland. Lake's men appear to be even speedier than they were at the close of last season, and then they were going some.

23 MUTINEERS ARE HANGED BY TURKS

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 12.—There were twenty-three public executions to-day and the bodies were left hanging until noon. They were the men convicted by courtmartial in connection with the assassination of the commander of the battleship Assar-i-Tewfik when he trained the guns of the ship on the Yildiz Kiosk. Other officers on the battleship were slain when they tried to suppress the mutiny.

The first revolt against the new Sultan is reported to-day from Uskub, about 100 miles from Salonica. According to the dispatches about 450 men from the Albanian garrison there have organized a movement against the Young Turks. This marks the initial movement in the threatened uprising of Prince Berchem-Eddin, son of Abdul Hamid, who threatened to revolt and place his father in power again.

Dispatches from Beirut to-day state that the entire district about Marash has been laid waste. Sixteen villages with a population of 8,000 were wiped out.

WILLIAM O'BRIEN TO LIVE IN JERUSALEM

LONDON, May 12.—The Catholic Herald states, according to Reuter's, that William O'Brien, Nationalist member for Cork, who recently split with his party in the House of Commons, has definitely retired from politics and has taken up his residence in Jerusalem.

NEW YORK CENTRAL PAYS $136,000 FINE

NEW YORK, May 12.—The New York Central & Hudson River Railroad to-day was fined in United States District Attorney Henry A. Wise checks aggregating $136,000 for fines imposed by the United States Circuit Court for giving freight rebates in violation of the Sherman law.

FOUR PLUMS PASSED OUT BY GOVERNOR

Governor Draper to-day sent these nominations to the Executive Council: Charles F. Gettemy, Boston, director bureau of statistics; Dexter A. Atkins, Springfield, special police officer; Augustus B. Leonard, Fall River, clerk Second District Court of Bristol; Lewis M. Palmer, South Framingham, medical examiner, eighth district Middlesex County.

SOUTH END GROUNDS, May 12.—Under the fairest skies and the most favorable conditions generally, Manager Clark Griffith's band of ball tossers from Cincinnati made their second attack on Fort Dover, which is or has been up to this time, pretty well guarded by Mike Bowerman's red and white clad players.

The batting bee, indulged in by both teams in the first game of the series gave the fans an appetite for the heavy stick contests and a good sized crowd journeyed to the park to witness to-day's game in the hope of seeing another swat fest.

Bowerman was still stinging from the lacing his boys got at the hands of Clark Griffith's tribe and was out to even matters up in this afternoon's encounter. The "Chief" batters used up three of the star box artists of the Doves and it took the hardest kind of thinking before Big Mike Bowerman could decide who to send in.

DENIAL MADE BY RICHARDS

J. L. Richards, president of the Boston Consolidated Gas Company, declared this afternoon that he never suggested to James J. Storrow, president of the Boston Merchant's Association, that he take any action in reference to the gas contract recently signed with the Edison Company.

Before the Common Council committee, which is probing the matter, Mr. Emerson said that while the contract was pending, President Richards of the Boston Consolidated Gas Company told him "that the presidency of a large mercantile association awaited his (President Richard's) word to begin an agitation against the signing of the contract."

When pressed for the man's name, Mr. Emerson replied that he had reason to think that President Richards had James J. Storrow, president of the Boston Merchants' Association, in mind.

Mr. Storrow said to a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter to-day:

"President Richards is alleged to have made the statement, not I. You would better see him."

In a letter to the AMERICAN, Mr. Richards says:

According to the morning papers of Boston I must have been misunderstood by Superintendent Emerson in connection with public opinion on the lighting contract recently signed with the Edison company.

I have never suggested to Mr. Storrow, or any official of the Merchants' Association, that they should take any action in reference to the matter and have not been asked as a member of the Executive Committee to pass upon, or approve, the action taken by the association.

I also wish to state in this connection that Ex-Commissioner George U. Crocker never has been retained by this company and has not had any connection with it directly or indirectly.

Considerable excitement was caused to-day in the shopping district when an ambulance dashed to one of the department store entrances of the Washington street tunnel. The rumor was circulated that an accident had occurred. The streets were crowded with shoppers. FATHERS AND MOTHERS CAN HELP RACERS

TO the fathers and mothers of the school children of New England!

Have you stopped to consider the tremendous opportunity which is being placed within the grasp of your sons or daughters by the grand Vacation Tours offered free by the BOSTON AMERICAN? Have you considered the educational value of these trips?

The winning of any one of these tours means the making of your boy or your girl into a little man or into a little woman. These tours are to be taken at an age when their minds are most receptive, at an age when youthful pilgrims enhance the scenes and pictures of life and will leave a lasting imprint on their future development. The tours will serve to put the finishing touches to their education.

Few parents can afford to send their children on trips such as the Eight Seeing Trips in America proposed by the BOSTON AMERICAN; fewer still can afford to send their children to the capitals of Europe and very, very few can ever hope to send their boy or girl around the world.

Free of All Expense.

The AMERICAN offers to do all of this free of expense and will also pay all the expenses of escorts and chaperones, the winner of each of the fifty-eight tours offered having the privilege of selecting his or her own escort or chaperone—parent, relative or teacher.

Help them win! Do not be satisfied with seeing them second, third or fourth in the list of contestants. Anybody can be second, third or fourth. Help them get to the top of the list. There can only be one best. Let your son or daughter be the best. Help them be a winner.

What father or mother, if a position of honor and fame were offered to their boy or girl, would not use every effort within their power, even make sacrifices to see him or her attain that position? Few indeed.

Up to You, Parents.

Fathers and mothers it is up to you. You may not be in a position to see your son a graduate from some of our higher colleges, but you are in a position to see him depart on a tour which will net him more educational value and learning than all the colleges in the country.

Think of it! Besides sending your boy around the world, your girl to Europe or both on the AMERICAN Tours, you have the privilege of accompanying them to view with them the wonderful countries through which they will pass. The girls will see the wonders of Europe; Paris the mecca of fashion and art; London with its seething traffic, underground travel, and famous old masterpieces of architecture, St. Paul's, London Bridge, and the Tower.

They will view with wonder the scenic beauty of Switzerland, and the Tyrolean Alps. They will see the wonderful, beautiful Rhine, the Italian landscapes and gardens, beautiful Naples and Pompeii. They will travel in princely style and nothing that money can afford to make the trip superb, will be omitted.

Great Race for Boys.

The boys will start from Boston, two going East and two going West, to establish a new world's record. They will be in competition with boys of New York, Chicago, San Francisco and Los Angeles.

Every comfort and safety will be provided them. They will travel on fast ocean liners, they will bound over the ocean, race over the land, drink in knowledge and wisdom that should make them little business men when they return to their native shores.

The girls will travel in the best style possible. They, unlike the boys, will travel in leisurely fashion, stopping to see the many places of historical, artistic and religious interest in the countries through which they will pass. They, like the boys, will have chaperones of their own selection.

Then think of the American Tours, free for a prize! A wonderful opportunity; isn't it worth your efforts? Isn't it worth your while to help your boy or girl win one of the tours? Perhaps you have never thought it over before, but no better gift could be placed within the reach of your boy or girl. Knowledge, experience and travel.

Help them win. You have an equal opportunity offered you. Can you afford to let it slip through your fingers? It may never be offered again and it behooves you to lend assistance now.

FOUR CANDIDATES WHO ARE WORKING HARD FOR SUCCESS

Four candidates who are working hard for the various tours offered by the AMERICAN with bright prospects are Sadie M. Babcock, Catherine McGrath, William J. Devereaux and Oscar Petschke, Jr., of Providence.

This quartette of candidates from widely scattered sections of the New England States all give promise of being among the leaders when the contest is ended.

Miss Babcock, who resides at No. 4 Taylor place, Somerville, is the candidate of the St. Joseph Parochial School of Somerville. All the pupils of this school have pledged their support, and in addition, the mother of this confident young miss is working night and day. Between the two they have managed to climb well up in the list of the contestants, but they explain that they have "saved their best licks for the month of May."

Young Petschke is envious of the record made in the contest so far by Miss Allen. Carl Lagerquist and Philip McGuire, the three Rhode Islanders who have figured as gold prize winners, Petschke writes the Around-the-World Editor that the race has only just started and that he will be heard from when the list of winners on the tours is finally announced.

William J. Devereaux, No. 52 Worcester street, Cambridge, a bright lad attending the Boston College High School, numbers himself as the candidate of the Ancient Order of Hibernians Auxiliary. He says he will redouble their support and will work every effort to land one of the four prizes.

Catherine McGrath, No. 28 Hyde park avenue, Hyde Park, is a hard worker in the contest and promises to "land" all subscriptions. She is devoting all of her spare time to subscription getting, and will be determined to be a prominent candidate when the final figures are announced.

DEMAND $10,000 OR KIDNAP BOAS GIRL

NEW YORK, May 12.—Kidnappers have demanded $10,000 for the safety of Adele Boas, the little thirteen-year-old daughter of Arthur E. Boas of this city, who ran away to Boston, where she was found by the BOSTON AMERICAN about three weeks ago and returned to her father. The kidnappers have threatened to steal her away if Mr. Boas fails to comply.

The police are guarding the home at No. 10 West Eighty-eighth street.

Night and day for the past week bluecoats have watched the house in Harlem. Mr. Boas has received half a dozen anonymous threatening letters. Ever since the daughter came back to him to save him the $5,000 which he had offered as a reward, suspiciously acting men have been seen near the house.

GETS DIVORCE, SAYS DOG STARTED ROW

That her husband, David Ballantine, a vaudeville singer, threatened to knock out her brains with a baseball bat because his pet dog had died during his absence, was the testimony of Mrs. Mary A. Ballantine of East Boston in the Suffolk Divorce Court to-day, before Judge Wait. The case was not contested and a decree nisi was granted.

Married in Turkey at thirteen, Mary Kostikian of Chelsea, now twenty-three years old, was granted a divorce from her husband, Peter, on the ground of cruelty.

DOUBLE LEGAL STAMPS EVERY DAY UNTIL 12 NOON

AT 65, FIGHTS $50,000 SUIT ON ALIENATION

WORCESTER, May 12.—Sensational testimony of trysts, scented love notes, anonymous letters and a diary with startling revelations will be presented as evidence in the Worcester County Superior Court, when the $50,000 alienation suit, brought against George W. Knowlton, the wealthiest and most influential citizen of West Upton by Arthur J. Bartlett, a shoe factory worker of this city, for the alleged loss of his wife's love, is heard.

All Worcester County was surprised when it became known that Gideon N. Knowlton, sixty-five years old, white-haired and a grandfather, the owner of a large straw hat factory and acres of real estate in West Upton, has been named in the suit. Aristocratic residents of Worcester and West Upton, it was stated upon good authority, will be summoned as witnesses when the suit is heard.

"Knowlton broke up my home and stole my wife to leave me," declares heartbroken Arthur Bartlett, whose wife and fifteen-year-old son, Lloyd, fled to Spokane, Wash.

"All the allegations and charges are untrue and groundless; I am innocent. This is a case of extortion," replies Knowlton.

Bartlett charges Knowlton with improprieties extending over a period of nearly a year, from January until November, 1908, during which time his wife conducted a manicure parlor, three days each week, in a cottage directly opposite the factory owned by Knowlton, and alleges that they took trips together, visiting Worcester and other cities.

She Procured Divorce.

On Nov. 12, last year, after the Bartletts became estranged, Mrs. Bartlett procured a divorce decree nisi from her husband, which would have become absolute yesterday but Charles B. Perry and John Alden Thayer, counsel for the latter, secured a motion in court for a stay of proceedings.

The decree was granted on the grounds of cruelty, but counsel for Bartlett maintain that their client made no contest of the divorce libel because of a misunderstanding. He was in the courthouse with witnesses to tell the court he was willing to live with his wife and provide for her and Lloyd. There was a provision in the divorce decree that the latter should be permitted to visit Lloyd at designated times, but last December, Mrs. Bartlett found that his wife had fled to Spokane.

George W. Knowlton for the first time to-day met a reporter who called at his beautiful mansion on Main street, West Upton. He called up Attorney Peter T. Dolan of Worcester and the following statement, the first in the case, was authorized to be given out:

Admits Visiting Parlors.

"There are no grounds for this suit. It is purely and simply a case of extortion. Mr. Bartlett is endeavoring to secure money from Mr. Knowlton, a respectable man. It is admitted that Mr. Knowlton visited Mrs. Bartlett in her manicure parlors at No. 10 Main, but there is no harm other person would.

"If any alienation action was to have been brought, it should have been brought last November, when the divorce decree was heard. We shall fight this case to the finish and no money will be spared."

BOSTON GIRL SUICIDE.

PEORIA, Ill., May 12.—Except for a few postal cards signed "Mother" and mailed in Boston, there has been found no clew to the identity of Miss Alice Burnside, who killed suddenly at the St. Francis Hospital Saturday night. Unless there are definite developments in a few days the body will be buried in potters field.

AIRSHIPS FLY TUFTS WAR ON BOSTONWARD YOUNG WIENER

NORTH ADAMS, May 12.—The point-to-point balloon race between Dr. R. M. Hoxsie of North Adams in the Overlock and A. D. Potter of Greenfield in North Adams No. 1, is being contested.

Dr. Rendall went up at 10:30. He was alone in the basket, as Charles Gatslee, who was to have gone up with him, had to get out of the basket, Greylock being unable to carry both men and the necessary amount of ballast, four bags of sand, Dr. Rendall is trying to land at Leeds, thirty miles distant.

Potter went up at 10:27. He was accompanied by George H. Sanderson of Greenfield and Pilot N. H. Arnold of this town. Potter announced Turner's Falls as his destination. It is about the same distance.

Just before 1 o'clock this afternoon both balloons, high in the air, were being whirled rapidly eastward. They had ever shot their intended stopping places. They appeared to be heading toward Boston in an attempt to gain the cup offered for the first balloon which lands within five miles of Boston coming from the westward. One of the balloons was sighted above Northampton, while the other was high over Williamsburg.

Members of the senior class at Tufts are up in arms as a result of the action of President Hamilton in giving Norman Wiener, a fourteen-year-old student, a seat in the senior section at morning chapel. The seniors say that Wiener is a junior, in spite of the fact that he has taken the four years' course in three years and is to graduate this year.

Wiener has attempted to take a seat in the senior section, but has always been unceremoniously ejected by the irate seniors. These commotions came to such a pass that after chapel President Hamilton addressed the senior men and sprang a genuine sensation among them when he announced that Wiener had been granted a seat in the senior section and that his rights must be respected.

The President paid a high tribute to the boy's ability and roundly scored the attempts of certain members to keep him from the seats.

Sentiment among the seniors differs in regard to the matter, but the general opinion seems to be that Wiener is not a member of the 1909 class in that he did not enter with them, has not participated in any of their affairs, has not paid the class assessments and will not share in the class day celebration.

OCEAN TRAVEL IS CHECKED BY TARIFF

Some agents of the Atlantic steamship lines are disappointed over the falling off in the first-class passenger traffic this season. One of the steamship agents says that part of the loss of cabin travel is due to the delay in fixing the tariff bill at Washington, which

BOSTON DOCTOR ACCUSED WITH LIMERICK GIRL

NEW YORK, May 12.—Other names than the original eight are mentioned today in the divorce suit which Edwin E. Martin is pressing against his wife, Etta Hamilton Martin, the Brooklyn soloist. Two of the men just mentioned by Mr. Martin are Massachusetts men.

"Leo" Hall, the well-known professional baseball player, is one of the new names added to the list of men Mr. Martin mentions. Dr. De Beare, who is said to be a Boston dentist, is another name alluded to in the case.

Hall hails from Cottage City, Mass. He insists that he was merely a "sympathetic" friend and that when the beautiful Mrs. Martin was soloist at the tabernacle of the Methodist camp meeting there he never met her except to sing.

Six of these men have come forward with affidavits of denial, which they are furnishing Mrs. Martin for her defence as well as their own.

Attorney J. Arthur Hilton, counsel for Mrs. Martin, insists that she is wrongfully accused and that the men whose names have been mentioned in the suit, some of whom are declared to figure in the limerick verses in letters introduced in the case, were merely guests of Mrs. Martin or admirers of her vocal gift.

Mrs. Harold D. Meeker, the finance of her girlhood, denies all charges involving his name. Concerning treatment he admitted to her it is said that Massachusetts physician certified to its necessity, and that Mr. Martin employed and paid him for it.

Mr. Martin's lawyers announce that most important among the witnesses against the wife is Mrs. Ella Woods, her colored maid. According to this servant, her mistress was wont to have midnight parties at her apartments in Cottage City in the Summer of 1905. The maid even accompanies her affidavit with a diagram of the detached frame cottage from which she says she was able to watch Mrs. Martin.

VIRGINIA HARNED HIDING AT ATHOL

ATHOL, May 12.—Virginia Harned, who was denied a divorce from E. H. Sothern by a Nevada court, is in seclusion in Athol. Only a month ago a Reno judge decided she was not entitled to the decree she sought for alleged desertion and failure to provide. The court ruled that she had not perfected her residence in Nevada.

Miss Harned came here last Friday and since then has been at the Summer home of Francis Kingdom, the actor, in Pequoig avenue. Mr. Kingdom is on the road, but his family is at his elegant Summer home with Miss Harned. Their guest declines Miss Harned refused to meet reporters.

She is here for a rest until bidden from any further notoriety in this story about her getting a divorce," said an attendant at the Kingdom house.

TWO BADLY HURT IN MALDEN EXPLOSION

Michael Brannagan and Joseph Lodi were injured in an explosion of a blast charge of dynamite at the Malden city stone crusher quarry to-day. Lodi left eye was torn out and his right hand blown over the ledge, which is sixty feet high. Brannagan was badly shaken up, cut and bruised. The victims are in the Malden hospital, where Lodi is in a serious condition. The second head was found on the other side of the ledge by Patrolman Mike Muldoon.

A blast was put into the ledge yesterday. Lodi failed to explode it, and after the men went to draw the charge the cap was touched and an explosion instantly resulted. Brannagan lives at No. 1 Hubbard street, Malden, with a wife and four children. Lodi also has a family.

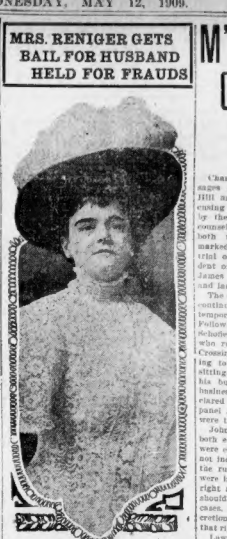
MRS. RENIGER GETS BAIL FOR HUSBAND HELD FOR FRAUDS



Mrs. John H. Reniger.

Friends of John H. Reniger, the mining stock speculator, indicted under a charge of using the United States mails in a scheme to defraud, learned to-day that through the personal efforts of Reniger's beautiful young wife, he secured the $3,000 bail required by United States Commissioner Shields in New York, where the Boston man was arrested Saturday.

The devotion of Reniger and his wife has always been marked and while Reniger was on the top wave of prosperity here months ago and money in his get-rich-in-a-minute schemes was pouring into his pockets they were seen everywhere together. Now that fortune has turned, the plucky little woman is more devoted than ever, and she got D. Lorrimedie of New York to put up the bail required for her husband.

When Mr. and Mrs. Reniger will return to Boston, where the man must appear in the United States District Court on June 22 is not known by their friends here.

Reniger used to live in Roxbury. Last Summer he and his wife lived in Winthrop, and last Winter in Newton.

CHICAGO, May 12.—Marie Fron, twenty years old, danced herself to death in a public dance hall, according to the verdict of a coroner's jury. M'CULLOUGH COUNSEL AND HILL IN TILT

Charges and counter-charges, verbal passages at arms between District Attorney Hill and Lawyer John F. Feeney, the excusing of three jurymen from the panel by the Judge despite the protests of the counsel for the defendants, chairmanship by both the government and the defence, marked the opening to-day of the second trial of Leo F. McCullough, former president of the Common Council, and Lawyer James E. Cassidy, charged with conspiracy and larceny of $200 from the city.

The work of impanelling the jury was continued to-day, twelve men having been temporarily accepted yesterday afternoon. Following a conference between Judge Schofield and the attorneys, Thomas Hunt, who runs a department store at Roxbury Crossing, declared that, while he was willing to serve, it had been told him that sitting on the jury would interfere with his business and might injure him in business way. Judge Schofield then declared that Hunt should not sit on the panel and exceptions to the judge's ruling were taken by the defence.

John Keough and Walter R. McLeod, both employed at Long Island by the city, were excused on the ground that they were not indifferent. Lawyer Feeney objected to the ruling declaring that over 14,000 voters were in the city employ, that they had the right as citizens to sit on civil cases and should have the right to sit on criminal cases, and that it was not within the discretion of the court to exempt them from that right.

Lawyer Feeney declared with some heat that the District Attorney was making unfair statements in the presence of the jury, and that he would object. Mr. Hill, was trying to intimidate the jury before they had been sworn, and he asked the judge to strike from the record some remarks made by the District Attorney. Mr. Hill came back with the statement that he was, wanted to be, and had been perfectly fair to the defendants and the jurymen.

Thomas A. Kelly was challenged by District Attorney Hill because he is a candidate for the Common Council. John A. Murphy, a contractor, of Massasoit avenue, was the last juror called and accepted. The jury were sworn and Clerk Campbell read the indictment. Richard Halsall was appointed foreman.

District Attorney Hill then made his opening address.

GERALDINE FARRAR TAKES "PA" ABROAD

NEW YORK, May 12.—Miss Geraldine Farrar, the Metropolitan Opera star, yesterday sailed incognito for Europe on the Kronprinz Wilhelm.

"Really, so many cruel things have been said about me in the newspapers of late that I have nothing to say," she said. "I am going over to Europe to take an absolute rest. I am traveling incognito in regalia, and there is nothing that I could affirm or deny. Please excuse me this time, and see firmly, but politely shut the door."

Just before the steamship left, however, the prima donna donna relented, after another had acted as ambassadress, and came down deck only for a minute. Miss Farrar was accompanied by her father, wore a dress suit and a derby hat and a wonderful hat.

Giovanni Zenatello of the Manhattan, Antonio Scotti and Miss Maria Gay of the Metropolitan are also among the passengers.

Mr. Scotti will go to London, where he will sing as usual, at Covent Garden. Miss Gay is on her way to Paris, where she will sing "Carmen" and "Aida" at the Gaiete.

HUSBAND OF SLAIN WOMAN PROVES ALIBI

PROVIDENCE, R. I., May 12.—Ernest Allen of Hopkinton, the divorced husband of Laura E. Regester, the young woman who was strangled to death in Rose of Is rael cemetery, is working with the police to run down the murderer.

Allen was taken into custody himself early to-day in connection with the case. But he easily established an alibi. Instead of being incensed at the authorities, Allen immediately offered to help them.

He has given the police tips which may lead to clues. He has told the police information of some of his divorced friends. The police are now working along the lines indicated by Allen. They have strong hopes of unraveling this murder mystery, which had become most baffling.

The work of the police was temporarily halted this afternoon by a double automobile accident at Kingston, this noon in which Allen, the officers and three newspapermen narrowly escaped serious injury.

Early to-day Town Sergeant George Barber of Hope Valley went to the farm of Mrs. Margie Carr, one and one-half miles away in the township of Hopkinton. Allen, who works for the Carrs, was placed in custody, but no specific charge was lodged against him.

Hadn't Met in Year.

Allen was brought to this city to be questioned by Police Inspector Godfrey, who is working on the murder in this city. Allen not only denied any knowledge of the murder, but said he had not seen the former wife for a year, and then attached the matter by giving a detailed account of his movements on the night of the murder.

He said he was asleep in the Carr farmhouse. This statement was corroborated by members of the Carr family. At 10 o'clock Inspector Godfrey started back to the Carr farm with Allen to verify the corroborative of the Carr family himself. But before Godfrey started away with Allen John Wilcox of Washington county said to Allen:

"You will be released."

Town Sergeant Barber of Hope Valley also gave out information that Allen's alibi was unassailable and that it was corroborated in every detail by the Carrs.

Allen's Explanation.

Following is Allen's statement:

"I have not seen Laura Regester but once since we were divorced four years ago. I saw her a year ago. I have not written to her or tried to resume friendly relations. I always thought well of her. I had no hard feelings toward her.

"Monday morning I worked in the garden. That afternoon I drove Miss Carr and her friend, Miss Foster, over to Woodville and we went back to the Carr farm to supper. I went to bed at 9 o'clock, got up early and later went to the village."

Mrs. Margie Carr, Miss Carr, Miss Foster and Eugene Bates, another man employed on the farm, all said what Allen said was true.

Clew Given by Mother.

The police secured their information as to Allen's whereabouts from his mother.

Deputy Sheriff Barber called at the Allen home in this city early this morning, and questioned Mrs. Allen.

She admitted to the sheriff that she knew where her son was and furnished the address of the farm house in Hope Valley where Allen was found.

Immediately after securing this information Barber and two other deputy sheriffs where they found Allen asleep in his room. obtained an auto and went to Hope Valley. The long forty-mile drive was a most thrilling one, the greater part of the distance being through dense woods.

The car had several narrow escapes from being wrecked as the roads were in poor condition for a machine going at high speed.

Engagement Ring Gone.

Miss Regester's engagement ring was torn from her finger, her silver sleeping bag and a gold locket were missing when her body was found.

From the moment Miss Regester stepped from the car within 600 feet from her home, not one trace of her whereabouts has been determined. She left the car alone, the only passenger, and quickly disappeared into the darkness of the lonely suburb, where she lived.

Although several persons heard the woman's cries, nobody has as yet been found who saw any man near the scene of the crime at the time the girl was slain.

CALLS TUCKER A DRINK SLAVE

CHICAGO, Ill., May 12.—The deposition of Mrs. N. B. Payne, concerning the habits and disposition of Colonel William F. Tucker, U. S. A., retired, who is sued for separate maintenance by his wife, Dolly Logan Tucker, daughter of General John A. Logan, was made public to-day.

Mrs. Payne is a cousin of Mrs. Tucker. She said that the relations of Colonel and Mrs. Tucker toward each other in their daily life in 1898 were amicable, but Mrs. Tucker was very nervous because of Colonel Tucker's constant drinking and irritable disposition. "He was always under the influence of liquor," she said.

"In St. Paul in 1898, after crossing in January, Colonel came home about dinner time in such a muddle state that Mrs. Tucker went all to pieces. Although the weather was cold she went out on the porch and cried for at least an hour because of this thing.

"I observed that the afternoon they arrived with the body of the Tuckers' son George from the Philippines Colonel Tucker was intoxicated. He drank all the time that the body lay in the house. In fact, he drank right along until he went back to the Philippines."

ARE YOU ARTIFICIAL OR INSINCERE? The famous essayist, Gilbert K. Chesterton, explains in the SUNDAY AMERICAN the difference between these two characteristics.

GERMAN DIPLOMAT VISITS HARVARD

Count Johann Heinrich von Bernstorff, the new Ambassador from Germany to the United States, is a guest of Professor Munsterberg of Harvard in Cambridge to-day. The diplomat was much interested in the Germanic Museum. President Eliot and President-elect Lowell were among the guests met by the Ambassador at luncheon.

MISS KELLER'S PLEA FOR BLIND

NEW YORK, May 12.—Society turned out in large numbers at the benefit performances at the Hippodrome, in aid of the New York Association for the Blind.

A troupe of blind athletes from Overbrook, Pa., vaulted and ran, built pyramids of themselves which collapsed as gracefully as a fan, and did other gymnastic feats that were more convincing than all the facts printed on the possibilities of the blind. In aquatic sports they were splendid, and the way they showed how to rescue a drowning man and bring him to shore brought down on them the applause of the house.

Miss Helen Keller sent this letter—as a message to the people of New York:

"I congratulate you warmly on having such a faithful, efficient agency as the New York Association for the Blind. It is doing great work, necessary work, practical work. It is the only organized power in your State that is trying to help the sightless to help themselves, and to prevent blindness. It pursues practical, economical methods to alleviate existing hard conditions and also strikes at the root of the evil. There are about 6,000 blind men and women in New York who need the association and the association needs you—it needs your sympathy, your friendship, your help.

Demands Separate Support.

Q.—Didn't you write a letter on April 15, 1902, to A. J. Crossman, demanding separation? A.—No, I never wrote that letter.

Q.—Didn't you write this letter to your husband's father, saying: "I have stood all I will stand from your son, and I demand separate support. I can't stand for him to smash the gifts of my family to the children. I want to get the separation privately. Fred would be relieved from one whom he never did any love. I will work hard for the children. I am not afraid of the physical work. It's the mental work that I fear. I shall not write to me, Father Hiss, and I have his protection."

The letter was never mailed. Mrs. Crossman finally admitted writing it, and leaving it on her desk unsailed and missing. It.

"Didn't your husband say that disaster and misery would overtake you?"

"I don't remember."

LOEB DISCHARGES 4 MORE.

NEW YORK, May 12.—Collector of the Port Loeb to-day dismissed four more men from the customs service as a result of the shakeup which has followed his investigations. Those four men are United States Weighers Charles H. Wardell, Jr., Archibald Edmondston, John W. O'Brien and Charles Dewitt Brew.

CROSSMAN WEEPS OVER LOVE NOTES

Fred A. Crossman, the wealthy lumber dealer of Kingfield, Me., broke down, covered his face with his hands and sobbed aloud in the Middlesex Probate Court at East Cambridge to-day when affectionate letters from his wife, Mrs. Alice K. Crossman, were read during the trial of Mrs. Crossman's suit for separate support.

This trial has been in session for several days. Mrs. Crossman, stylishly gowned in blue, resumed the witness stand to-day for her direct testimony. When she was examined by her husband's counsel, Attorney William Prest, she started to put the letter through a series of questions herself, but Attorney Prest insisted he must conduct the case on the law.

Then Attorney Prest began reading from a big batch of letters. The first was one written by Mrs. Crossman to her parents when the latter was away on a business trip. Attorney Prest read thus:

"I am looking forward eagerly to the coming home of my dear husband. Every letter suggesting home makes me so happy."

At this point Mr. Crossman broke down.

"Unfit to Care for Family."

Mrs. Crossman is the daughter of former Mayor J. M. W. Hall of Cambridge. She is suing for separate support on the ground that Mr. Crossman was cruel and abusive to her and also threatened to take her three children away from her.

In her direct testimony to-day Mrs. Crossman denied that her own family had ever interfered between her and her husband. But she did say that Crossman's aunt, Mrs. Sam Crossman, and told her Crossman was not fit to take care of a family.

Cross-examined by Attorney Prest:

Q.—Did you ever write a letter to your husband saying you were "tired in the upper story"? A.—I think I did.

Q.—Did you ever mention the awful responsibilities of marriage? A.—Yes, I think it is an awful responsibility.

Q.—Did you ever write that you'd be thankful when death relieved you or when your children had grown up? A.—I might have.

Q.—Do you write your husband that you missed him very much when he was away and that he was very good and kind? A.—I might have.

Q.—Was that true at that time? A.—I might have been.

Woman Questions Lawyer.

Then Mrs. Crossman asked Attorney Prest if she might ask a question. Being granted permission she said:

"You brought these letters in yesterday, but doesn't that prove that I wrote them? Now you ask me again if I wrote them."

Attorney Prest—"I ask you now because you have contradicted so many things."

Mrs. Crossman—"I have only contradicted when I had to in order that the truth might get in. Won't you please show them to me now so I may identify them and then we may drop them. If you please."

Attorney Prest—"You will pardon me if I conduct this case in my own way."

Q.—Didn't you write in a letter that if your husband would cultivate gentle manner and speech and wear city clothes and a derby hat that you could love him? A.—I don't remember. I should like to see that letter.

The attorney showed her the letters and read from them.

At this point the husband cried again.

ROOSEVELT BAGS TWO GIRAFFES

NAIROBI, British East Africa, May 12.—Two giraffes, one leopard and one buffalo are the latest additions to Colonel Roosevelt's hunting trophies, obtained yesterday.

He also captured two leopard cubs. The giraffe and buffalo are new additions to Mr. Roosevelt's assortment, which now stands at seventeen species.

The party is still in camp near Machakos. No further cases of smallpox have developed among the porters of the expedition.

Nearly everybody in Boston reads the AMERICAN.

ON WATER WAGON, ARRESTED AS DRUNK

How a man may be on the water wagon and—not, at the same time, was illustrated to-day by Tomasso Cusimano. He was driving a water wagon along Tremont street when Policeman Fisher arrested him on a charge of drunkenness.

EVERY MAN HIS OWN PEARL RAISER.

The government's experiments with gem-creating muscles and the plan to place them within the reach of all is detailed in the SUNDAY AMERICAN.

$600,000 AS FIRST AID TO THE INSANE

The Legislative Committee on Public Charitable Institutions to-day voted to report favorably on the bill asked for by Dr. Copp of the State Board of Insanity to appropriate $100,000 to purchase land for the proposed hospital for first aid to the insane, and also $500,000 for construction. The latter appropriation is to be spread over a term of years. This bill is a new proposition, and the Longwood site and the Lexington branch sanitarium are eliminated.

Our Orders Are Good in Any Store in Boston, And in All the Big Cash Stores—You Can Buy Anything You Want at Their Cash Prices—We Pay Cash to the Big Stores For What You Buy, and You Can Pay Us Back a Little a Week.

We must, however, charge you 10% more if you buy this way, as all the other order houses do.

You cannot obtain your goods at once in the cash stores, as they have to be returned to us for delivery to you later—you lose time and money by this method.

Our up-to-date method is to have the same goods as the cash stores in our own store and sell on credit at cash store prices, saving you this 10% and giving you the goods at once. We are glad to accommodate you either way; you can take your choice.

Then, again, on the order system we have to get a big deposit down the same as the other houses do, usually from one-third to one-half; it costs you more money to do business that way.

By buying Boyle Bros. way you don't have to pay any money down; we trust you for the whole bill and you pay a little a week. That is our famous No Money Down Plan that no house can beat.

We Save You 10% on What You Buy, and Pay You 4% Interest on What You Pay.

FOOT ONCE MODELLED BY STANFORD WHITE IN CINDERELLA CONTEST

And Still the Interest Grows! Who Will Win a Golden Slipper?

One of the pretty Boston feet entered in the Cinderella Foot Contest of the BOSTON AMERICAN was deemed worthy a few years ago of being modelled by the late Stanford White, the celebrated New York architect, so graceful and shapely was it. Stanford White was a great artist and architect. He designed the Boston Public Library and was an expert on matters of taste and beauty.

The possessor of this foot, which was modelled by Mr. White on account of its classic beauty, has entered this Cinderella Foot Contest.

This entry surely is an interesting one. But it is not certain by any means that this particular foot will win the highest prize. For there are many other entries now, and they include some of the most shapely and dainty feet that ever graced a shoe.

Recognized Beauty.

One of the entries yesterday was a girl who is employed in a shoe store. She knows what a beautiful foot is, for two reasons. She sees plenty of feet in her work in the first place. And she has a very pretty foot of her own in the second place. Urged by her friends to enter the contest, she finally did so. Her foot is not extremely small, for it is a No. 5, in fact. But it is finely modeled and a source of passionate pride to its owner.

The Cinderella Foot Editor shows to-day pictures of some more feet entered for the contest.

Remember this, girls, it isn't necessarily the smallest foot that is the best. A pretty-shaped No. 2 may outclass a No. 1 of less graceful outlines.

There are a lot of entries in by this time, but more are wanted. The more the merrier. If you have a pretty foot, even if it is not a 1% or a 2 in size, come to the BOSTON AMERICAN office at No. 82 Sudbury and enter the contest.

Remember, girls, your names will not be published. But when the prizes are awarded, names will be published then. But you won't mind that. No girl is afraid to have it known that her feet are the smallest and prettiest in Greater Boston.

These prizes are four in number. The BOSTON AMERICAN gives three of them, as follows:

First—A golden slipper inlaid with jewels.

Second—Silver spangled slipper.

Third—$25 cash.

Then there is another and unique prize. This is offered by Manager Arthur Houghton of "A Stubborn Cinderella" Company, now playing at the Colonial Theatre. On behalf of Mort H. Singer, owner of the production, Manager Houghton offers a place in his dramatic company for any one of these contestants.

The prizes will be decided as follows: After the contest closes on May 20 a board of three judges, artists and experts on beauty, will select the best thirty to qualify. From these thirty the judges will name the three to receive the three prizes awarded by the BOSTON AMERICAN.

From the same thirty Manager Houghton will select the one to be offered a position in "A Stubborn Cinderella" Company.

Make an outline drawing of your foot, at home if you wish, fill out the entry blank appended to this article and bring the blank and the outline drawing to the BOSTON AMERICAN office. Or you can have the drawing made at the BOSTON AMERICAN office if you wish.

The Cinderella Foot Editor will have your foot photographed free of expense to you for this contest.

There are entries from nearly every part of Greater Boston. But some districts—East Boston and Brookline, for example—are yet to be heard from. Why is it? Is it because there are no girls with small feet in those sections. The Cinderella Foot Editor hates to think that is the reason. Maybe some East Boston and Brookline girls will enter. Just to show it isn't any such thing.

JUROR FOE OF HAINS, EXCUSE FOR NEW TRIAL

NEW YORK, May 12.—"I expect to prove that one of the jurors expressed a decided opinion on the case before he was chosen," said John F. McIntyre, chief counsel for Captain P. C. Hains, convicted of manslaughter for killing William E. Annis.

"An investigation is about to be started, and I am confident that I can secure at least two affidavits that this juror, before he had been passed upon, told fellow employes at the place where he worked, that his one desire to serve was that he might send Captain Hains to the electric chair. The employes have expressed their willingness to permit me to push the investigation there. Two or three affidavits proving the charge would bring about a new trial.

"One of the juror's fellow employes called me up two weeks ago and told me of this man's expressions of opinion.

"I am also looking into the question of jurisdiction. I want to find out if Captain Hains's trial in a State was legal, or whether, as an army officer, he should not have been tried by a court martial.

"I have found one precedent that shows the trial should have been by an army court. It is that of a West Pointer who murdered a fellow-cadet. He was judged by an army board, in spite of the State authorities' attempt to put him on trial.

"I will apply for a new trial on Monday. If that should be refused, then a writ of ireasonable doubt will be sought. There is little doubt of our being able to secure it. If we secure a new trial, a change of venue will be demanded, as it is impossible for Captain Hains to get a fair trial in Queens County because of the general prejudice against him there."

CUTICURA CURED CHIEF OF POLICE

Canadian Officer Poisoned by Weeds —Eczema Developed and Legs Became Scaly—Ankles were Very Sore and Itchy — For Weeks He Could Not Wear Shoes.

FREED FROM ITCHING BY CUTICURA REMEDIES

"I have been successfully cured of dry eczema. I was inspecting the removal of noxious weeds, it being part of my duty, from the edge of a river and was constantly in the dust from the weeds. At night I shook out my trousers and cleansed my limbs, but felt a prickly sensation. I paid no attention to it for two years, but I noticed a scum on my legs like fish scales. I could scrape it off, and yet I did not attend to it until it came to be too itchy and sore and began getting two running sores. My ankles were all sore and scabby and I could not wear shoes. I had to use carpet and felt slippers for weeks. I was then on particular police duty and was compelled to be on duty. I got a cake of the Cuticura Soap and some Cuticura Ointment. In less than ten days I could put on my boots and in less than three weeks, though on duty all the time, I was free from the confounded itching. I tell you frankly that Cuticura saved me from what the doctors called a bad leg. Capt. George F. Bliss, Chief of Police, Morris, Manitoba, Mar. 30, 1907, and Sept. 24, 1908."

BIG ATHLETIC EVENTS SLATED FOR TECH FIELD

During the next month Technology field will be the favorite track for holding athletic meets.

Next week the New England Intercollegiate Athletic Association, comprising all New England colleges, with the exception of Harvard and Yale, will hold its annual track and field meet on Friday and Saturday. Holy Cross was admitted to the association this year, and literally this college is a dark horse.

On Saturday, June 5, the Boston Athletic Association will hold its games on Tech field, and on the following Saturday, the 12th, the New England Amateur Athletic Union is to hold its annual meet there.

Last year at the Boston Athletic Association games, and at the New England Athletic Amateur Union games, almost every previous record of these associations was broken on Technology field, although some excellent work was made at the Intercollegiate Association last year that the track was "rapped," yet the later records, as noted above, show that with the best interest the track was best.

Last fall the Technology management put about thirty-five tons of blown spark cinders on the track, covering it to a depth of easily two inches, and these were allowed to settle during the winter and have been continually rolled. This Spring fifteen tons more of cinders have been spread on the track and put on.

To-day the track stands as fast as any in this section, if not probably the fastest. The water piping has been extended, so that in case of dry weather the 220-yard straightaway and the back stretch of the quarter-mile track can be thoroughly watered.

It is anticipated that at the Intercollegiate games next week some of the present records of the association will suffer.

JEFF'S THREAT DOESN'T SCARE BIG JOHNSON

CHICAGO, May 12.—Mista Jack Johnson rises to remark that he is the ogg and only heavyweight champion of the world at the present writing. There is a large heavy set party doing stunts down Wabash avenue this week who thinks different, in fact, and Jack merely wishes him to remember.

When Jack and his camp followers read the reports that Jeffries said he would lick the burly black on sight, the colored fighter cogitated a few moments and then said:

"If he thinks he can lick me right now he must be in good shape. If he can lick me on sight there is no good excuse for him wanting to set a date or for his putting the date off for several months if he is going to fight. I'll take chances on his licking me at sight."

During his two weeks' stay in Chicago Jeffries will do actual road work, and just as soon as the weather warms up he will take regular morning practice with the White Sox at the South Side Park.

The opinion of the fight critics who looked the big fellow over in his first public appearance here, was all to the good. Judging by the way the huge ring rested on the roof of when the retired champion made his initial stage bow is evidence enough that Chicago fight followers believe Jeffries can beat Johnson when they get to the title.

Jeffries still considers he is the champion, and refuses to relinquish to Johnson to lay claim to the title until after he gets into the ring with the big colored person. According to all those who have had personal meetings with the large Californian, Jeffries hates Johnson as he does poison, and it is really a genuine hate.

WHY DID SHE LEAVE HIM? Read in the SUNDAY AMERICAN the romance of a Baltimore belle and the millions that vanished.

Baseball News and Notes

Wild Bill Donovan of Detroit may soon be sporting a new confidence over the result of his pitching aggregation being hit by a thrown ball.

* * *

Jimmy O'Rourke, who received a try out with the Yanks last Fall, is making good with the Reds where he is playing second base. In the same league is Bill Hinchman, who, behind the willow is a heavy hitting star, Gee is hitting the ball for Pittsburg in the style that made him famous in the big show.

* * *

Evers and Walsh got off easy. One hundred pounds each for being fined $100 by Ban Johnson May. Well, both drew an average this season. To Walsh the fine meant less than nothing, for he pulls down an extra $1,500 which he would not have pulled for the entire season, so his imagination as he did by holding out.

* * *

With this League leading the Dodgers, ever step challenged to see a look like the real goal of the season, which is not a pennant for Brooklyn or either for he respects the ball squarely on the nose every time.

* * *

Billy Bransfield has really developed into a first-class fielder. Kit never did have any trouble with the bases, though, for he was always known as a lot of schoolboy class while covering the base. In fact he was a very dangerous man on the paths. Bransfield might make a member of the Pirates. Morris refused to play on the field team with Kitty, and the result was that Hey Barry shifted his former captain to first.

* * *

Chick Fraser need not worry about being let go on the ledge. His brother Dick, who pitches for Philadelphia would be able to keep the wolf from the family's door for a while. Chick is getting $6,000 for the recent wheat corner.

* * *

Things are going bad for former Philadelphia players. Fraser and Coakley both left on the same day, the Chicago Cubs having asked waivers on them.

* * *

Grimshaw, the old Boston first sacker, is playing third field for Toronto and batting the ball.

* * *

Hard luck and Kelley are not discouraged. Larry Lajoie, the Napoleons believes that the Naps will get room to the front. Just give us a little time and we will show them all a fast clip. Soon as the field is ready for action on the field look out for us," boasted Larry a few days ago.

* * *

Cleveland has asked for waiters on three pitchers—Berger, Liebhart and Falkenberg. This seems to indicate they will make a fit in Newark.

* * *

Speaking of Hoelitzell, Schlitzer, Heitmuller, Abbaticchio and others of the Red Sox, it is a question how does Mgr. Carrigan of the Reds stride just? Carrigan controls each of the above mentioned players.

* * *

The Cubs are learning the converse in the language of the dumb show. Hank O'Day chased eight of their players to the clubhouse for talking too loudly on the bench.

* * *

Nashville is perturbed by an unusual baseball fight. Two players on the Nashville team, one of them a pitcher, have declared they should not be sent to Nashville. It seems that the pitcher declares he can say what he pleases, and not be bothered with detailed play, according to the contract the Southern League has with the National Agreement. To get even Nashville fans have declared they will not attend games at all.

* * *

The fans wonder if Billy Sullivan wasn't the man behind all the time that Manager Jones was hard hit by a batted ball.

* * *

It was only a few seasons ago that Little Rock refused to take Bugs Raymond for $100. What's the matter—and what trouble—Finn overlooked.

* * *

Connie Mack says he's going to send a team of right-hand hitters against southpaws from now on and his left-hand hitters against the other sort.

* * *

Have you noticed that few games have been called on account of rain this year? Not more than three or two losses! This is due to the fact that the season is young and the players work slowly and cautiously, especially the pitchers, who are taking no chances on injuring their heaving wing.

* * *

Schmidt, the Detroit catcher, must be a mourner these days. Stanage is showing like a wonder behind the bat and Bernhard has been pounding a winning game.

* * *

Stallrich established a peculiar record the other day. He batted three times in a game, scored a run and made three assists, but all three that scored runs. That gave him a perfect average.

* * *

What Johnny Evers remarked when he heard of the recommendation: "Hope that Mr. Murphy will suspend one for three years. I'm under contract to draw pay for two. Kind of tough on Murphy, though."

ALDERMAN WANTS TO CUT UP POLO GROUNDS

NEW YORK, May 12.—Recognizing Alderman McAvoy as the leader of the fight to have avenue from One Hundred and Fifty-fifth to One Hundred and Fifty-eighth street, bisecting the Polo Grounds, the home of the New York Giants, as one that bears all the earmarks of a job put up by the Republican organization of the Thirty-fifth district, the Assembly Committee of a committee to appear before the local improvement board of the Washington Heights District and oppose Mr. Mulcahy's proposal.

Ex-Alderman Joseph Griffenglen, Cahill H. Woodward and Ernest Ellert have been named as the committee. They will point out that the work is absolutely unnecessary, and that the avenue would have to be One Hundred and Fifty-eighth street and not nowhere, and in addition it would cause the New York Baseball Club the loss of the use of the field. A meeting of protest to many thousands of New York citizens.

"It is a vicious proposal," said a prominent Republican in commenting on the matter.

KID GLEASON AND LENNOX SUSPENDED

NEW YORK, May 12.—The suspension of Kid Gleason, coach of the Philadelphia National League Club, and Edgar Lennox, third baseman of the Brooklyn club, for quarreling during the game played at Brooklyn on Saturday has been announced by Acting President Snyder of the National League.

The limit was fixed for the termination of the suspension. Lennox was found to have been at fault in attacking Otto Knabe of the Philadelphia club for spiking him in sliding to third base, and Gleason was blamed for taking part in the fisticuffs which ensued. The latter's suspension for one day, was exonerated and allowed to play.

ROGERS WINS 10-MILE RUN.

HALIFAX, N. S., May 12.—Fred Rogers of the Crescents romped home an easy winner in the 10-mile race at the Arena in 54m. 25s. Only a lap behind came A. B. Campbell of St. Francis Xavier. Gordon Wolfe, the Dartmouth A. A. C. man, got third. Fourth fell to H. Harvey Charlestown, while J. F. Martin, St. Peter's, got fifth.

BACK TO THE TROTTERS.

Two trotting horse trainers, Lee Darnaby of Lexington, and John Reuser of Philadelphia, that had forsaken the sulky to follow the runners, have returned to their original loves and will again be seen piloting some good ones. Darnaby has signed with J. E. Tarlton of Allendale Farm, and Reuser has opened a public stable.

BOXING BITS OF NEWS

Hugo Kelly and Billy Papke will be the first big attraction at Ostbolt's rink. They meet for ten rounds on the night of May 17, and the bout has every promise of a hot one. Both Kelly and Papke are experts at the in-fighting game, and when matched against each other in the past have put a slight favorite. In their two ten-round bouts at Milwaukee, Papke was the victor in the first one, scoring the stoppage at the end and would have won both bouts if they had been over a route.

Pat Nelson arrived in Frisco and will now settle matters concerning the date he will take McFarland on. According to the latest report, Nelson will take on Hyland on May 20, Thompson on May 27 and McFarland on June 3. Nelson is in fine shape and will step fourteen rounds to stay, but it is not quite sure as to the date he will be ready to box McFarland.

Abe Attell is over at Baltimore trying to break the bookies. Abe has always fallen for the ponies and has had small fortunes going to beat them.

Jack McGigan has been signed to act referee for the Phillips-Jones bout at Ostbolt's rink tonight at the National Club of Philadelphia.

Jack Britton, welterweight champion of the East, is now boxing Jim Wilson, Boland, Paddy Lynch, Billy Farland, Thompson, Gunner Nord and Artie Cox, Farrell, Barry, Ferguson, Jeannette, Lewis, Moran, Dermody and Welch on the other side. There will be little material to work on after this bunch.

Lee Parrello, the Italian, backed out of the bout with Kenny Lewis that was to be pulled off in Seattle on Wednesday, and in order not to disappoint the fans, Manager Lewis agreed to attempt to throw the Italian twice in thirty minutes, but after Referee Keller had called off the bout in sixteen and one-half minutes by a reverse Nelson, Parrello refused to continue the defense and several times crept and ran off the mat.

When "Honey" Mellody, the droguist-boxer, was matched to box Jack Britton, he said by Willie Lewis he certainly had it handed to him in Mellody's dealings.

How Frankie Neil has dropped. He takes on Jack Blake at Milwaukee on Friday night for six rounds.

Johnny Frayne, the New York lover who showed up well in his bout with Jack Britton, is matched for a match at the Armory Club with Dashler or Young Kaufman.

INDIAN SIGN ON M'KINNON SAYS 'CHOLLY'

Jimmy Gardner of Lowell got the decision in a twelve-round fight with Bill McKinnon of Roxbury at the Armory Athletic Association last night. There was a very large crowd present, and three preliminary bouts preceded the main event.

By CHOLLY BACKBAY.

Mr. James Gardner of Lowell was awarded the decision in a twelve-round discussion with Mr. William McKinnon of Roxbury at the Armory Athletic Association pavilion last night.

No words were exchanged by the principals. Some remarks were interjected from time to time by interested spectators, but they did not materially affect the result.

It was generally agreed at the finish that Mr. James Gardner of Lowell had put the Indian sign on Mr. William McKinnon of Roxbury, good and plenty, and there were loud cheers when the referee gave out his opinion to that effect.

Nevertheless, Mr. McKinnon of Roxbury had his supporters, and there isn't the slightest doubt that Mr. McKinnon is a husky kid.

Prior to this event, Augus McDougal, a South Boston sea-dawg, had put Charles McDonald, otherwise unidentified, to sleep in the second round, and Kid Barron of Dorchester, R. I., and Ed Shevlin, the former 125-pound amateur chappion of New England, required only a few minutes to relieve Peck Le Favor and Joe Murphy respectively of nowhere else. Then the real business of the evening begun.

Here's Mr. McKinnon, better known as Bill—blonde, pinky, muscular—weighing perhaps 170 pounds.

Here's Mr. Gardner, better known as Jimmie, dark hair'd, white skinn'd, also muscular, weighing perhaps 155 pounds.

It was a "catch-weight" affair, you understand, and the pounds are only guessed at, but the boys were there all right and you could size them up to suit yourself. Prize fight? Sure.

But what's the harm? Mr. McKinnon, who was licked, shook hands with Mr. Gardner, who licked him, in a most friendly way. After all it was only technical, because Mr. McKinnon was going some at the end and his pink skin showed only a somewhat deeper pink in spots where the wallops of Mr. Gardner had landed. Mr. Gardner's white skin also showed some blushes where Mr. McKinnon's gloved fists had connected with his frameworks.

Blood? Not a drop!

Bruises? Perhaps!

One can't get a straight poke over the eye without showing some effects of it, and Mr. McKinnon got several of them.

"Good bout," said the crowd going out; "fair decision," and there you are.

It was a typical Boston crowd, well behaved, fair, enthusiastic for good points, and it went away satisfied with the exhibition and the verdict.

Mr. McKinnon, the experts say, was outclassed. With greater weight and much pugnaciousness, he carried the fight to Mr. Gardner, who handled it back to him with extreme dexterity in both hands.

Mr. Gardner on the Job.

In fact, Mr. Gardner was declared to be highly effective in the returns and frequently he lauded Mr. McKinnon a straight arm jolt that made the Roxbury gent rock some.

Still it was not at all easy for the Lowell man. The Roxbury scientist had him on his toes all the time and there were some merry mix-ups when a portion of the crowd yelled "Now, you've got him going Mac! Give it to him." And there were answering cries of "took him, Jimmie; he's got in."

But neither Mr. McKinnon nor Mr. Gardner was "all in" at any stage of the game. They both showed up with amazing vigor after the minute intervals between rounds and the guessing match continued to the finish.

In the fourth round Mr. Gardner succeeded in landing a hook that brought Mr. McKinnon to the mat amidst much enthusiasm, but Mr. McKinnon did not linger on the green. He got right up and came back with a verve that gave Mr. Gardner pause for reflection.

From that time the gentleman from the town of many mills displayed exemplary caution. While his straight left was probably shade he was going very carefully, and in the final round it was Mr. McKinnon who was raking all the chances.

Worked in a Pivot.

The Roxbury candidate had a pivot movement that was disconcerting. It was the cause of much alacrity on the part of Mr. Gardner and in one instance nearly ended the argument adversely to the Lowell entry. But after that Mr. Gardner knew enough to get under the reverse.

The referee's decision in favor of the Lowell boy was generally indorsed.

THE FIGHT BY ROUNDS.

What really happened is here recounted:

ROUND ONE.

Gardner looked serious, while McKinnon had an air of confidence in the early canters. They fenced for an opening and Mac rushed in, but Jimmy stepped back and Mac missed like a motion. Then Jimmy stepped in and slipped a tapping left hook to his wind. Jimmy forced Mac back to the ropes, and in the clinch Gardner right and left to the body, doing execution at intervals. Mac rushed and Jimmy went to work, giving a chance for Mac to belt him, but escaped. Mac's straight left to Jimmy's face was stopped by Gardner's right glove as it went by, and Mac rushed again, but Jimmy ducked and the swing went wide. They exchanged at close range without caution and Jimmy had the better of the argument. As Mac rushed Gardner back stepped and Mac jolted with right to head in the clinch. Gardner's round.

ROUND TWO.

Jimmy jabbed on the nose. Mac piled into the scrapping, planting him on the ropes in a determinator to beat his right to the body. A straight left on the face was what McKinnon got as he rushed. Gardner was forced to get under cover and Mac, encouraged with success, kept after him back with straight left. Mac's blow was in long swings. Gardner got careless and missed several times, but McKinnon got out of the sortie. Mac scored with left and right follies to face and body. Again Mac beat his way in and Gardner landed a hit twice, a left to the jaw failed to stun Mac, who rushed, but jarred Mac to the ropes and Gardner hit him with lefts and rights to the wind region. Even round.

ROUND THREE.

Gardner missed a left as Mac rushed and tied up quickly. Mac went in with a rush to body. Mac missed Jimmy into a corner and jolted on the left ear punch, while for Lowell boy blocked with his arms. Gardner got Mac's hook in line with his left and shook his top piece nearly off. Jimmy followed up the advantage by blows and doing pug everything. Mac rushed furiously, and in the mix-up Gardner's left glove was ripped off and he stepped in with a terrific right-hand swing. Mac rushed, but found only a fortress of arms to land on. Jimmy walked around, jabbing. Mac looked foolish as he missed swings. Gardner to the ball Gardner again administered as Mac rushed to get at him. Gardner's round.

ROUND FOUR.

Mac started in rushing and suffered right and left. He jabbed and shot over right, nearly connecting. With lowered head Mac rushed again. He whaled Jimmy on the body with right. Then Gardner jabbed left to the face. Mac rushed, but left lefts which nearly knocked McKinnon's cap off his framework. As Mac rushed Jimmy caught him with a left around the neck which held him pounding on the mat for a knockdown, the only one credited in the bout. Mac was on his feet in an instant and rushed, Jimmy being contented to spell off and go. Gardner got busy again and jabbed left to the face. Jimmy let up with a right to the head. Another jab and Jimmy's left glove was ripped, leaving a fatter at Mac's wind, which he tried to get away from. Jimmy's wicked jabs kept Mac from getting within distance of his lamb. Gardner's round.

ROUND FIVE.

Gardner started operations with right to body. He got close again, driving right to heart. He held Mac's head down with his left and with his right simply covered up when Mac made a rush, with engine, blocking every swing. Jimmy jabbed on the break and covered up when Mac tried again. Another jab to the face, held Mac to stretch, and Gardner's second, nothing to do to stall a bit, as he had the lead. Gardner stepped around the ring, Jimmy refusing where to start his rush. Gardner's round.

ROUND SIX.

McKinnon got the signal to move in and rushed, but Jimmy was footwork and Mac missed a lot, but Gardner hit nothing but air. Mac got a left to the body. Twice Jimmy jabbed clean with left and Mac missed a wide swing. Jimmy smashed on the jaw with right at short range. He put two nasty jabs across just as the bell came. Gardner's round.

ROUND SEVEN.

Jimmy jabbed with left and ducked a left swing. Mac walked right into a smash on the belly from Gardner's left. Jimmy nearly swatted Mac to the floor with a neck hold, getting Mac off his balance. Jimmy stamped left to the jaw while both were in arms' length. Again Mac backhanded with a long swing, which Jimmy ducked and countered with left to the jaw. They exchanged at close range without caution and Jimmy had the better of the argument. As Mac rushed Gardner back stepped and Mac jolted with right to head in the clinch. Gardner's round.

ROUND EIGHT.

As Mac rushed Jimmy caught him with a right on the neck which nearly put the middleweight off his pins. Jimmy jabbed and caught Mac with left to belly as he came on. Gardner repeated with left to head and left to wind. Mac rushed pell mell into the Lowell lad, cutting him above the eye with his head, and the red blood trickled down over his countenance. It smothered the fighting Irishman and he whipped left to wind. Mac kept rushing with lowered head and got right over to the body. Jimmy jabbed right and left and Mac missed a right swing. Jimmy got under a swing, but Mac rushed and in the clinch tried to jolt Jimmy's head off with rights. In again went Mac with left to body and right on the kidneys. Mac missed and Gardner uppercut with right to head. Gardner caught a corner when Mac pushed in, and on the break drove left to body. McKinnon received a warning from the referee for butting with head and Gardner hooked his right with left on the break. Mac rushed and Jimmy met him with straight left as Mac waded in. Gardner to Jimmy made Mac break ground by sloshing away with both hands for the wind. At the bell Gardner stumbled and fell flat on his back trying to get out of the way of McKinnon's rush. Gardner's round.

ROUND NINE.

Gardner jabbed to the face and rushed with head down. Mac, being unable to cop him before clinching, Jimmy got under a swing, but Mac rushed and in the clinch tried to jolt Jimmy's head off with rights. In again went Mac with left to body and right on the kidneys. Mac missed and Gardner uppercut with right to head. Gardner caught a corner when Mac pushed in, and on the break drove left to body. McKinnon received a warning from the referee for butting with head and Gardner hooked his right with left on the break. Mac rushed and Jimmy met him with straight left as Mac waded in. Gardner to Jimmy made Mac break ground by sloshing away with both hands for the wind. At the bell Gardner stumbled and fell flat on his back trying to get out of the way of McKinnon's rush. Gardner's round.

ROUND TEN.

Gardner went in with left to body. He tried to shake Mac off his feet by twisting his neck, but Mac was ready to rush again. Jimmy jabbed hard with left and slanted a hook for the jaw with the same hand as Mac rushed. Jimmy was inclined to wrestle and then got away and peppered with a bunch of straight lefts. They rose close with both hands, Jimmy going faster and landing in right and left to body and head. Jimmy to butter the wind. Jimmy went in once more and Mac rushed. Jimmy met him with left to face and back to an instant and Mac and Gardner shook hands. Gardner's round.

ROUND ELEVEN.

Mac took left cop the nose as he rushed and Jimmy got under a left swing. Mac missed as he rushed, but pounded on the body in the clinch. Mac was willing, but ran into Jimmy's tantalizing left. Mac had a right swing and Gardner came back with left to face. Gardner was no better for McKinnon's willingness and Gardner was content to let the contest. He confined his attentions to lefts to the body, which caused Mac to hop. Four contested straight lefts and Mac forced Jimmy to clinches. Even round.

ROUND TWELVE.

They shook hands and Jimmy put left to nose. Mac swung right for jaw, but Jimmy ducked. Mac received left to body as he rushed, and Jimmy in again with head lowered. Mac rushed but received left to body as he came on. Gardner to Mac's body and head. Mac rushed for Gardner's jaw, which surprised the Florida City boy. Mac rushed and Jimmy met him with straight left and suddenly he drove right to body. Gardner swung wide as he sought to get home on Mac's body. Making a last stand, Gardner showed some of it and Mac, being unable to cop him before clinches up. McKinnon's round.

YOUNG CORBETT WINS OVER HARRY SCROGGS

BALTIMORE, Md., May 12.—Young Corbett was given the decision over Harry Scroggs at the Monumental Theatre after fifteen rounds of fighting, during which Scroggs clinched most of the time, police Lee ex-champion from getting over the haymaker. Corbett had Scroggs out, giving him to the canvas with a right swing, but the gong saved him at the count of eight. A great crowd was on hand to see the mill, and Corbett ruled favorite at $100 to $15 with few takers for the short end.

GEORGE'S REDUCTIONS

A Practical Step to Overcome the Difficulties of a Backward Season

A cold April made Winter Overcoats comfortable. Consequently, there was no active demand for spring garments. With our large parlors in this city, and our growing trade in Boston, we have thousands of garments left, desirable qualities for garments the fashion offered, and lined extra skilled cutters and designers, in the construction of GEORGE'S MODEL GARMENTS. The result now is, an assortment in three cities. Prompt action and quick sales are necessary. While the demand is now in the time to unload, so right in midseason, we force sales by reducing prices, the season's finest garments were marked $15, $18, $20 and $22 and $25. Now $12, $15, $16.50, $18.50 and $20. Best possible values ever offered in Boston. Our garments are entirely different from ready made, and there is no comparison in real value between our productions and those offered by others. An hour of inspection is worth a ton of words; therefore, come and see. If alterations are necessary, the garments are fitted to your figure, by our master tailor, free of cost to you.

MIRANDY ON WOMAN'S FAITH

"Some women is so sloshin' over wid it dat they can believe a thing dat dey knows ain't true"

By DOROTHY DIX

"'SIS MIRANDY,' says Brer Jenkins, as he ole night. 'I ain't a wishin' to cast no reflections on you as a dohbin' Thomas, you bein' de President of de Daughters of Zion, which is engaged in de pious work of raisin' de preach-er's salary, an' headin' de donation parties.

"'Howsomever, Sis Mirandy, de best of us—I'en women—dough I never has heard dem admit hit, has got our faults, an' dere has ben times when hit has kind of ben proned into me dat you was sort of shy on faith, an' so I has done brought around to you a paper dat has got on account of a lady in hit dat I trusses will be an example to you.'

"'Brer Jenkins,' spons I, 'I is a humble woman dat is willin' to set at de feet of dem dat has got wisdom an' learn of dem, an' so I axes you what has dis lady done dat has done qualified her to set up as an example to her sect?'

"'Well, Sis Mirandy, says Brer Jenkins, 'dis lady had one of dem side-steppin' husbands dat is given to chasin' ev'ry ruffled petticoat dat crosses his path, an' I has observed dat dat sort of thing is mighty apt to git on a wife's nerves.'

"'Des let me catch like a-castin' sheep's eyes at any of dem straight-front hussies, an' I lay dere'll be wuk for de ambulanch,' 'sclaims I.

"'Dat's jest de pint. Sis Mirandy; dat's jest de pint dat I was a drivin' at, an' where dis lady is a model for you to follow, an' an example for all wives,' says Brer Jenkins, 'for what does dis angel creeter do when one of dem kind friends, what always comes an' tells you de things you don't want to know, feels hit deir Christian duty to whisper in dis lady's ear dat dey has done seed, wid deir own eyeballs, her husband out ridin' in one of dese hoss mobile wagons wid a mighty scrumptious young lady, wid a peach basket hat an' an Umpire frock, an' dat didn't look like she was none of his kin. Also dey had seed her husband shoyin' champagne, an' birds an' lobsters, an' so forth, for dis young possum of de female persuasion, while like as not his po' wife was a settin' at home a eatin' a cold pork chop by herself, an' dis thought made de kind friends feel so sad dat dey had to come an' tell de wife what dey had done observed for fear she might not find hit out if dey didn't.'

"De Beautiful Faith of Woman"

"'There's times when you can always depend on yo' friends,' spons I.

"'You bet you can,' Sis Mirandy,' says Brer Jenkins, 'but what I was agoin' on to say is dat when her friends brought de wife dis news about her husband's givins on dat hit raised her dander, an' she waited up for her husband wid a flat iron an' a rollin' pin, an' a lot of things us her mind to tell him, jest ink you would a done, lady differs. Sis Mirandy, based on her bones as well as hearts,' weigs I. 'Dey keeps de world straight.'

"'Amen,' says Brer Jenkins, 'dough I thinks dat when a woman as he got a buryin' bone she mostly overdoes the indoors business, but right dar is what you an' dis pitchin' into her husband de minute he got his foot inside de do' ink you would a had told her about seein' him out wid dat young female, an' he says dat he ain't disputin' what day said, an' dat no doubt dey thought dey did see him, but dat wasn't him ,dat was his double, an' his wife believed him, an' axed his pardon for her unjust suspicions, an' he forgave her, an' de flow of peace is a-hoverin' over dat happy home.

"'Oh,' goes ole Brer Jenkins, castin' up his eyes to de ceilin', 'how beautiful is woman's faith! What would we do without it?'

"'Well, ef you axes my opinion, 'spons I, 'I thinks you men would have to behave a lot better. Hit's because women is so sloshin' over wid faith dat dey can believe a thing dat dey knows ain't true dat makes hit a safe thing for a man to sequaate off of de straight an' narrow path.

Maybe everybody else knows dat he can go up against a gallon of red eye without so much as knowin' dat he had an appetizer, but his wife goes around feelin' sorry for him because dat she believes dat jest a smell lays him flat.

"'Did you ever know a man dat gambled away all de pay envelope so dat his wife had to take in washin' to support de fambly dat didn't believe dat her husband was jest kidnapped an' drug into de game by evil companions whilst he struggled to git away to go home?

"'Did you ever hear of a married man dat got mixed up wid any woman dat his wife didn't believe dat hit was de woman's fault? "'Brer Jenkins,' spons I, 'maybe faith can remove mountains wid some folks, but I puts my trust in a good ole-fashioned bel-ief.'

"'Hit's dis modern unbelief of women' dat is de cause of all dis beah increase in divorsh,' says Brer Jenkins.

"'Brer Jenkins,' says I, 'has Sis Henrietta'—which is Brer Jenkins's wife—'got dis beautiful faith dat you is promulgatin' about?'

"But Brer Jenkins jest groaned lak a pusson in misery an' went his way."

The Man on the Trapeze

He and All Skilled Men Are Benefactors of the Race

By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX.

Copyright, 1909, by American-Journal-Examiner.

WATCHING the wonderful work of a tight rope and trapeze performer, the question arose: What good does it all do? Where is the benefit to the human race in such a sacrifice of time this athlete has been obliged to make in order to reach his astonishing proficiency in a seemingly useless achievement?

Yet this man and all the others who have attained skill in the same difficult line of endeavor are benefactors to the human race, if we will look at the matter analytically.

They teach us what can be accomplished in any direction by unswerving purpose, undagging will and persistent patience.

To jump through the air, to catch the hands of another man who is hanging by his feet from a trapeze and oscillating to and fro, to drop those hands and turn the body completely around in midair and then catch the perch from which the original leap is made and vault as lightly to a seat as a bird settles upon a branch, is an achievement which no human being can accomplish save by one method.

And this method is direct purpose, unfaltering effort and daily practice.

And this method will bring success to any effort, in any line, for any human being who puts it into execution.

Depths of Power in Man

When I think of the marvellous control over his body and the laws of gravitation which this trapeze performer exhibited, I wonder that any man or woman can fail in anything attempted.

When I think of the unfathomed depths of power lying in every immortal mind I wonder that the world is not filled with feats of successful people.

There is no such thing as failure for any one who sets forth to his goal as the trapeze performer sets forth to attain his aim, and who keeps at his work with the same persistency.

If you are seeking health, wealth, usefulness, skill in any direction, there is nothing, and no one, who can hinder your attainment of the coveted boon if you are willing to work and wait as the man on the trapeze worked and waited before he reached his present superb success, for such excellence in any vocation is nothing short of superb, because it means concentration and persistence.

Mind Controls Mind

If you have a habit you want to overcome you can do it. To control the mind by the mind is as easy as to control the laws of gravitation and the movements of the body, but both require steady, daily, unremitting practice.

If you want to succeed in any business or profession the man-on-the-trapeze should be an inspiration to you.

You may consider yourself a much superior being in the social scale and on the intellectual plane, and more highly developed spiritually, but you are this man's inferior if you are complaining that you have no success, and that the world does not use you fairly, and that you have no influence, and that only the man with a pull wins.

All this talk proves you to be the inferior of the man-on-the-trapeze, who stands at the head of his profession because he kept working, practicing and trying for the perfection he knew could be won by his own persistent efforts.

That is all success means.

Choose your vocation and go ahead. Nothing can hinder you but your own lack of purpose and application.

Girls, Watch the Man With "a Good Job"

Poets and Painters May Know How to Make Love, but Will They Be Good Providers?

Many men who do not make love in a romantic way make good husbands.

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

A FEW days ago my small niece went to a wedding. It was a very grand wedding and Margaret was an ardent admirer of the bride.

That evening, when she was having her supper, I overheard the following conversation:

"Mother, is the man Miss Mollie married a good man?"

"I don't know just what you mean by a 'good' man, Margaret," my sister answered.

"Oh, well, mother, I don't mean a man who is always saying his prayers; I mean, has he got a good job?"

She looked so angelic as she made this extremely practical remark, that, for a moment, we were fairly nonplussed. However, we assured her that the bridegroom met her requirements in all respects, so she was satisfied.

It may seem very unromantic to question the bridegroom's eligibility, but it isn't. A man may be full of romance and yet be very practical.

Don't disdain a man just because he happens to be a little bit businesslike in his love making. His sentiments are all right, but he does not know how to express them, that's all. And, remember, girls, that the thousands of good husbands you see on the prowl for a good job?

Why is it that faith in your Nervura, as about ten years ago I had malaria for about six years and had three good doctors, but they could not seem to do anything for my malady. One day a friend told me to get a bottle of Dr. Greene's Nervura. I had not taken half of the bottle when I began to feel the effect, and I got entirely well after taking two bottles, and have not been sick since. I could not say everything that was set before me, and felt like a new man in every way, and I have recommended it to all my friends, and am willing and will say that it is the best of anything I ever found for a headache such as I had at that time.

Now is the time to take Dr. Greene's Nervura, blood and nerve remedy, the greatest and best Spring remedy the world has ever known.

Dr. Greene is the well-known, noble medical lecturer and specialist in treatment of all nervous and chronic diseases and can be personally consulted at his office, 34 Temple Pl., Boston, Mass., or by mail, free.

What is Reform?

IN Politics, turning the government over to the tender mercies of people who imagine that if the police were only honest and fearless, hades might be raided most any night and the devil put out of business.

In Theology, making, from time to time, such advances on the old order as will enable the fit to survive without having to give up their pews.

In Business, discovering at the psychological moment, an adequate scapegoat, and sending him forth laden with those of our sins that are no longer commercially profitable.

In nearly all fields of human endeavor, something of a convenience. For there is almost always that element of sincerity in it which will make it a willing horse to cover designs needing to be covered.—Puck.

Maytime

By JOHN A. MOROSO

WHEREVER pain or pleasure lies,
I'll warrant you that near the skies
There is an attic, where you may
Find comfort in the hardest day;
That is, if Fate has been so kind
To leave you poor and with a mind
For God and Nature and the love
Of Woman—what a treasure trove!

THE dormer window o'er the eaves,
Where nest the sparrows, 'mid the leaves
Of Summers dead—ah, 'neath the loam
There rests the one that made a home
For you or me, perhaps—the skies
Are curtains and stray butterflies
Their bridlerein; a palace gay
The attic is in time of May.

AND if the Father hath decreed
That, in the attic, you must lead
A life devoid of woman's smiles,
Her tears and other charms and wiles
That open heart and soul, why then,
Pray God, as honest gentle men,
That greater blessings may stir your breasts.
And urge you to diviner quests

IT may be that some gentle slope,
Bedecked at Spring, may hide a hope,
A long-nursed, prayed-for, fond desire,
Perhaps a son not yet a sire,
Perhaps a mother whose deep love
Died with her child—and dale and grove,
Where heaves the turf, in mouldering heaps,
Above the blessed one who sleeps!

The Bill Clerk Drops a Fiver

"BEEN having another session with Mr. Moore, Johnny?" inquired the cashier, cheerfully.

"What are you giving me now?" asked the bill clerk, with a savage gleam in his eye. "Who's Mr. Moore?"

The cashier gently chuckled. "R. E.," he explained. "They seem to be hitting very freely this morning. I guess the wind must be in the south. Wasn't the show all it was cracked up to be?"

"I've seen better and I've seen worse," replied the bill clerk. "It might have been nearer decomposition than it was, but I wish I had that little old five-spot back."

"Do you actually mean to say that you paid $5 to hear that conglomeration of drivel and discord?"

"That's what it cost me to a cent," replied the bill clerk. "Flowers, skiventy-five cents; candy, eggzy ditto; two seats, at one-fifty-five, and thirty cents carfare. Figure it for yourself; you're in the business."

"How well I remember when I was yet an innocent child blowing an entire quarter on a chunk of plum cake with sugar icing on it," said the cashier.

"I had lost the last taste of the cake. It was as if cake had never existed for me. True there was a certain sense of fullness, a constriction of the waistband, but that result might have been accomplished just as well by means of mush and milk. With the quarter I might have bought ten indestructible genuine agate marbles. I might have bought a painted limn xite or a good, solid rubber ball, any one of which, I might have traded to advantage when I was tired of playing with them myself.

"Next time she talks about shows, you try to convince her how much nicer it would be to put the money into a patent wringer or a hickory porch chair. You can get a near-cut glass pitcher and half a dozen tumblers for the price of one seat."

"I suppose you know what all that sort of thing leads to," said the bill clerk. "The first thing you know I'd be getting married and acquiring habits of frugality and temperance."

"Not in a thousand years you wouldn't! Not if you made the girl any such proposition as I suggested," said the cashier.

BOTHERSOME LICENSES

A QUAINT touch of Oriental ingenuity to harass the persistent users of opium has been invented by the superintendent of police at Canton, says the Lancet's correspondent in China. This official has issued 20,000 wooden licenses, ten inches long and eight inches broad and three-fifths of an inch thick. On the front of these boards are characters giving the smoker's name and address, and the quantity allowed him per week, and on the back are the opium regulations. The licensees are not allowed to cover their boards when going to buy opium, but must wear them conspicuously so that all may see them. Next year these wooden licenses are to be two feet long by one foot and half broad, three-fifths of an inch thick.—Argonaut.

Children's Health In this Menu

How to feed school children is ably set forth by Miss Caroline L. Hunt, a well known New York instructor, in a paper contributed to the Bulletin of the United States Bureau of Education, just issued at the special request of Commissioner Elmer E. Brown.

Miss Hunt gives what she deems an ideal day's menu, which contains the chemical constituents for the needed amount of protein, fat and carbo-hydrates. Here it is:

Breakfast.

Orange of medium size.
Cooked oatmeal, one-third cup.
Milk and cream mixed, one-half cup.
Toast, one slice.
Butter, one-half cubic inch.
Milk to drink, one glass.

Dinner.

White fish, 3 ounces as purchased or 1½ ounces edible portion.
Potato, 1 small.
Celery, cooked in milk, ¼ cupful.
Bread, 1 slice.
Butter for bread and potato, 1 cubic inch.
Rice pudding, one-half cupful.

Supper.

Egg. Toast, 1 slice.
Butter, one-half cubic inch.
Milk, 1 glass.
Prunes, 3, cooked with one-half level tablespoon of sugar.
Cookies.

Almost any boy, it is figured, ought to be able to draw about 1,500 calories out of that menu. But that diet every day will get tiresome even for the most hungry youth. So here are a few of the hints to mothers from Miss Hunt:

1. Become acquainted with the approximate composition of some of the very common foods.

2. Know in a general way how much protein material a child of a given age requires.

3. Exclude from the child's diet all "made dishes," rich sauces, salads and fried foods.

4. Do not try to limit bread and cereals, except when it takes sugar to make them acceptable.

5. Do not forget to give the child fruit and vegetables every day.

6. In enlarging the dietary from time to time as the child grows, make no experiments. Do not ask yourself "Why not give it?"

Can You Tell Time?

MOTHER asked Tommy to tell her the time, and the lad replied:

"I can't tell the hands apart. It may be a little to eleven or it may be a little more than five minutes to twelve.

When mother looked for herself she found that the correct time was about eleven o'clock, but that Tommy was really not quite so stupid as he appeared, for the hands had reached points on the dial where they might have changed positions and still told a correct time.

Can you tell exactly what that other time would be if the hour and minute hands were to change places?

Tommy discovered another simple little problem concealed in the clock. He found that it took eleven seconds to strike eleven, and wants to know how many seconds it will take to strike twelve.

One hundred puzzle books will be awarded as prizes among those who send correct answers to Puzzle Editor, in care of this paper.

Dr. Greene's NERVURA BLOOD & NERVE REMEDY

NOW BUILD YOURSELF UP,

This season finds you with thin, poor, impoverished blood, and weak, relaxed and unstrung nerves. You are without your usual strength, energy and vim; you feel that you are all "out of order," without being exactly sick. The cold wind seems to blow colder through you; a storm chills to your marrow, and you perhaps have rheumatism, neuralgia or kidney trouble, because of your disordered condition. You must take the best medicine to give you renewed strength and vitality. The best blood builder and purifier, the best nerve strengthener and invigorator is Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. It is the best medicine in the world to do all this. It purifies the blood, strengthens and invigorates the nerves. It makes tan weak strong and the sick well.

All Druggists Sell Dr. Greene's Nervura

Mr. J. E. Hilbert of Winchester Park, Tuckahoe, N.Y. says:

Worldly Place

"EVEN in a palace life, may be led well!"
So spake the imperial sage, purest of men,
Marcus Aurelius. But the sitting den
Of common life, where crowded up pell-mell,

Our freedom for a little bread we sell,
And drudge under some foolish master's ken
Who rates us if we peer outside our pen—
Match'd with a palace, is not this a hell?

DISCOVERER

by James L. Montague

THE salt winds toss his tousled hair; the startled pipers cry
And rise to circle in the air until he passes by:
The sea tan, dark upon his cheeks, imparts a deeper blue
To restless, roving eyes that seek for countries strange and new.
His tracks are on the tide-swept shore, but past the breakers' brim
His gaze is turning to explore the round horizon's rim.

PERHAPS beyond that dusty dune, just on ahead, there lies
Some undiscovered land that soon will stretch before his eyes—
A river winding off somewhere, its banks all velvet green,
And hilltops rising here and there that man has never seen.
Perhaps that headland hides a bay no mariner has scanned,
Whose landward reaches stretch away, its margins white with sand.

'TWAS thus the bold Balboa came to fill his destiny
Upon an unknown shore, and name a vast and alien sea;
'Twas thus the Vikings journeyed forth, by reckless daring sent,
Among the waters of the North, to find a continent;
And what has been, again may be. Shall one be stayed by fears
When he has lived beside the sea for seven glorious years?

* * * * * * *

A LITTLE tousled head is laid in slumber on the sand;
The little, shallow footsteps fade along the tide-washed strand;
A little halt for rest and dreams of deeds that wait before;
Then on, toward where the surf line gleams along the lightning shore,
Until the Undiscovered lies, new sketched, upon his chart;
Then home again, with dancing eyes, and triumph in his heart!

To-day's Best Story

THE captain of a large steamer was once filling up his crew for a long voyage, when a seaman came up and said:
"I want to sail with you, sir."
"All right, my man," said the captain, "and where have you sailed before?"
"Ye, and G., sir, to Australia."
"What countryman?"
"An Irishman," was the ready response.
"Well, you must get a character."
The discharge was obtained, and as the Irishman was presenting it another seaman came up and said he wanted to join.
"What line were you on before?"
"Onward, sir."
"What countryman?"
"English, your honor."
"All right, go forward."
Shortly after the two men were swabbing the decks in a heavy sea, the Englishman was swept overboard, bucket and all. Unmoved, Paddy finished his job and then went to the captain's cabin.
"Come in," responded the officer to his rap. "What's up now?"
"You misled Bill Wilkins, the Englishman and Cunarder?" queried Pat.
"Yes, surely, my man."
"Oh," replied the other, "the German professor was a awfully off that's all, you know."—Catholic Standard and Times.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

WAIT, BY ALL MEANS

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:
I am a member of a social club of girls and boys whose ages range from seventeen to twenty years, and am very much in love with the president of the club. He is a young man of nineteen and has good prospects for the future. By the marked attentions which he pays me I feel quite certain that he loves me. He has been at my house a few times, and my parents think a great deal of him. What I want to know is, should I invite him to my home more often, or should he ask permission to call? I do not want to make any mistakes, as I would feel heartbroken to lose him. He has not told me outright that he loves me, but I had told him I should wait till he does, or should I take the initiative? I DU B.

YOU say that he likes you and pays you marked attention. I think you should be content to wait until he tells you of his love. If you run after him you will be sure to lose him. Be nice to him and let him see that you enjoy being with him, but let him do the courting. If you have given him a general invitation to call, that is quite sufficient.

JEALOUS AND RUDE

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:
I have been keeping steady company with a young man who I love dearly and who tells me he is deeply in love with me. The other evening he happened to escort to dancing school. As I asked him to call for me, but he told me he wouldn't. I never expected to see him, and went up with a girl friend of mine. About 11 o'clock he appeared and looked very angry to see me, but I had told him the evening before I expected to go to the dance. Don't you think he acted quite rude by letting me go home with my girl chum and never asking to see me home? He told me that he was very angry to think I went to the dance, and didn't ever come to speak to me. Would you write to him and ask him if he feels sorry for what he did, or should I let him go? We have been keeping steady company for two years and I dearly love him. It makes me feel very bad to think he used me so coldly before my friends. F. E. N.

HE feared you very rudely, but I think it was because he was angry and jealous. Take no notice of him for a while, and I think that he will soon be all right. When he comes to see you next, have a quiet talk with him, telling him how badly he made you feel and letting him see plainly that you cannot be on friendly terms if he behaves in that manner again.

NOT A BRIGHT PROSPECT

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:
I am a young girl of nineteen years of age, and am in love with a man twenty-two years my senior, and my family do not approve of my keeping company with him because he is too old, and his prospects for the future are no very bright at present. Kindly advise me in the matter. H. A. F.

I CANNOT say that the prospect seems a very rosy one. The man is almost old enough to be your father and has not much to offer you. You had better think it over very seriously before you marry.

TOO YOUNG TO MARRY

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:
I am a young lady, seventeen years old, and am dearly in love with a young gentleman one year my senior. I am considered very handsome, and as this gentleman is not good-looking my sex means, my parents object to my marrying him. If I do not marry this young man I will be heart-broken, and so will he. VERA S.

YOU are too young to think of marriage for some time to come. If you are a sweet, sensible girl your good looks do not make much difference. As for the man, if he is honorable and industrious, that is far more important than being handsome.

CHAPTER VIII.

October 25.

COLONEL and Mrs. Crompton, from Washington, are stopping at the Savoy.

Last year, when Horace had the Stevens' case in the Supreme Court, and was in Washington so often, several times I went with him, and Mrs. Crompton entertained us at a dinner, both at her home and at the Willard.

This is the first opportunity we have had to return their hospitality, and now I must have them here at least once.

But, oh, how I dread it! I shrink so from the thought of trying to entertain now—to give a dinner—to make a pretense at gaiety when my heart is breaking! But if it must be done I am anxious to have it over, so I have invited them for Tuesday.

I feel that it might be easier to have some one else, so I have asked Mr. and Mrs. Duffield.

I talked with Horace about it this morning, and he has promised to come home early Tuesday and help receive them.

I am going to engage a caterer to prepare and serve the dinner. I haven't the heart to look after it myself, and Mary could not do it alone.

How different everything seems now—how everything weighs upon me. Always before I have taken such keen pleasure in planning and arranging a dinner at home. But now—what does my home mean to me?

October 27.

HORACE misunderstood me; he thought the dinner was for Thursday, not Tuesday.

When I asked him this morning to be sure not to forget to come home early, so that he could have time to dress before they came, he looked up startled. "Why, it isn't to-night? You said Thursday."

As I had not even considered Thursday, I don't see how he could have made the mistake.

He seemed much worried, said he was not sure that he could come early this evening. I almost cried in my anxiety. I said that he must—that I couldn't receive those people alone.

All I could make him say was: "I will try to come. I misunderstood the day, and I have made other arrangements, but I will come if I can."

"But if you can't come early, you will at least come in time for dinner?" I persisted excitedly.

"I will if I can, Mary; I told you that." He took all my self-control to keep from crying out—from demanding why he could not come—from letting go all the accusations and denunciations I have held back so long.

Then he had gone I threw myself on the couch, weak and trembling with the effort of self-restraint. But I knew I must not give way—I must keep up for to-night.

It is too late to stop the dinner now, and Horace must be met with smiling and self-contained. They must not know—they must not see——

If he does not come I must be prepared to make excuses—easy, graceful excuses!

THE dinner is over—and he did not come. Midnight.

At 8—just as we were going into the dining room, the telephone rang. Said he was very sorry, but that it would be impossible for him to get home. And then he said good-by and rang off, before there was time to ask any questions or make any protest. I do not even know where he was when he telephoned.

After that I went through the dinner as best I could, but I feel that it was a failure—a pitiful failure. In spite of my attempted gaiety and my carefully careless excuses for Horace, I know they felt something was wrong. There was a forced, constrained atmosphere through the whole evening.

And what hurt me most was their attempts to help—their pretense that they did not see. I presume I ought to be grateful, but it is hard to be pitied. They left early; for that I was grateful.

I am writing this, hoping it will calm me—that the mere effort of writing will take away some of this feverish bitterness.

For I am afraid—afraid that when he comes I shall lose all my self-control, and that at last I shall speak—cry out all that I have been silent about for so long. For I know that he is with her—nothing else would have kept him away. It is for her that he let me go through this alone.

November 3.

I HAVE spoken. Am I glad or sorry? Has it made things better or worse? I don't know. I don't know. I still feel numb.

It all happened that night—Tuesday night. I haven't written since, couldn't.

It was 1:30 when he came home.

I heard him go straight to his room. My door was open, the light shining out in the hall, and he made no effort to come in, to make any explanation.

He went direct to his room. If he had only come to my door and made even a pretext at an explanation I think I would not have spoken. But his quiet ignoring of it all maddened me beyond endurance.

The strain of the dinner, the long, feverish wait for him—it had all gone to make me desperate, and now, with a feeling of utter recklessness—a recklessness such as I have never known before—I went to his room and knocked. The door opened; he stood there inquiringly.

"Why did you not come?"

"It was impossible." His eyes were coolly quiet.

"Why?"

"I told you, Mary, that it was impossible."

"Why?" My lips and throat were dry.

"Listen, Mary; I am sorry you had to entertain—at the dinner alone. I regret it very much. I told you that over the phone. I would have come if I was able, I would not. Now, I think you had better let the matter rest there."

"Where were you?"

He did not answer.

"Where were you? You must tell me where you were to-night!"

Still no answer.

"Do you mean that you won't answer me—that you refuse to tell me where you have been?" I was frightened. I knew I should stop—that I was going too far—that I would only suffer more for this. But I knew, too, that I could not stop now—that I must go on and on.

"Then you refuse to tell me where you have been?"

He must refuse, Mary, to be catechised in this way. Will you let me say good-night?" He made a move toward the door as though to close it. That movement broke the last of my self-control.

(To Be Continued To-morrow.)

ARE YOU ARTIFICIAL OR INSINCERE? The famous essayist, Gilbert K. Chesterton, explains in the SUNDAY AMERICAN the difference between these two characteristics.

Wanted—a Trial

Our chef asks the chance to bake for you a single dish of beans. Then, if you like them better than those you baked, let him serve you always.

This is what he will do:

He will select, from the choicest Michigan beans, only the whitest, the plumpest, the fullest-grown.

He will pay $2.25 per bushel for them. That's more than seven times what some beans would cost.

He will make the sauce from whole tomatoes, ripened on the vines. He will use no scraps—no tomatoes picked green—nothing but the luscious fruit.

This tomato sauce will cost him five times as much as the usual, but it will have a superlative zest.

He will bake the beans, the tomato sauce and the pork all together, to give you a delicious blend.

He will bake with live steam—not with dry heat. Not a bean will be crisped; not a skin will be broken.

The beans will be baked until they are mealy, yet they'll be nutty because they are whole.

They will not be mushy, broken and soggy, like the beans that are baked at home.

He will heat his ovens to 245 degrees. He can do that, using steam, without burning the beans.

He will bake in small parcels, so the full heat of the oven will reach every bean.

That terrific heat will separate the particles so the digestive juices can get to them.

Your home-baked beans are heavy and hard to digest. Part of them always ferment and form gas.

That is due to lack of heat. The center of your baking dish rarely gets heated above 100 degrees.

Our chef's beans will digest.

We will send these beans to you, fresh and savory, ready for instant serving. No waiting, no bother. If you want them hot, simply put the can in hot water.

Please try them. They will give you a new idea of how good beans can be. Then let the people who eat them decide if they want these beans again.

Let's leave the decision to them.

Van Camp's BAKED WITH TOMATO SAUCE
PORK AND BEANS

This is now the national dish—the dish of the millions. To try them once means to use them forever. No other beans can compare with them.

We have worked 48 years to perfect this dish, and it's worth it.

Beans are Nature's choicest food—84% nutriment. Their food value is greater than meat, yet they cost but a third as much.

When beans were baked in the old way, people ate them hardly once a week. Baked in the new way, they've become a daily dish.

But don't think that all ready-baked beans are alike. Don't get some commonplace brand.

Van Camp's are unique. If you will once compare them with other beans you will see why the world demands them.

Three sizes: 10, 15 and 20 cents per can.

NEW OCEAN LINERS FOR BOSTON RUN

Big changes in Boston's transatlantic steamship service, which will give this city weekly service to Liverpool and fortnightly to ports in the Mediterranean, are to go into effect within a few months.

It is known by people connected with the transatlantic shipping service that the Cunard and the White Star Steamship Companies are preparing to double their passenger and freight carrying service at this port. The Cunard Company is now completing at one of the largest ship yards in England a magnificent 25,000 ton steamship of the most modern construction and equipment. This floating palace is to go into service by the end of 1910, and will be added to the Boston service now supplied by the Saxonia and Ivernia between this port and Liverpool. Still another steamship, it is reported, is to be added to the service.

The White Star Steamship Company, it is reported, is to abandon its monthly Liverpool service now being run by the Leyland line. At the same time it intends to add the steamer Cretic to the White Star-Dominion service, giving sailings every two weeks. At present the Canadian and Romanic ply between Boston and the Mediterranean ports, sailing once a month.

Negotiations are pending between the White Star and Leyland lines and the Boston & Albany and the Boston & Maine railroad companies to make changes in the docking of the steamers. At present the Leyland line docks with the Boston & Albany in East Boston, and the White Star boats at the Hoosac tunnel of the Boston & Maine in Charlestown.

The Boston & Albany is erecting piers in East Boston at a cost of $4,000,000. The Leyland line carries few passengers, while the White Star transports thousands. The new East Boston piers will provide modern docking places for the latter line's boats.

If the steamship companies and the railroads can come to terms, Boston & Albany will probably build one more great modern pier for the White Star line alongside of the $1,000,000 pier which the Cunard company is building in East Boston.

It is devised especially for boys who have fallen behind their grades during the regular term. The Summer school is to enable them to "catch up" and be ready for school next Fall in their old classes. William J. Phinney, principal of the High School, is to have general charge of the school.

HEED OLD REQUEST MADE BY GRANT

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 12.—A desire expressed by General Ulysses S. Grant a shout to be fulfilled, perhaps. After Vicksburg had fallen General Grant returned to his home in Galena for a brief visit. He was feted and feasted and his name was mentioned as a candidate for the Presidency. "No," he said in reply to the political suggestion, "there is but one of two offices I want—either Mayor or Aldermar of Galena. You see, I live out on that hill and in bad weather it is tough getting out there. If I were mayor or alderman I would have a sidewalk built to my home." Now, at the behest of Representative Hill, lon of Galena, the House has passed a bill appropriating $3,500 for a walk from the city the great soldier desired and to keep his old home in repair. If Lee Senate passes the bill the sidewalk will be put down at last.

TODAY'S STOCK MARKETS: FINANCIAL NEWS

HIGH RECORDS IN WALL ST.

By T. C. SHOTWELL.

NEW YORK, May 12.—High records were numerous in Wall street to-day. Among the stocks distinguishing themselves were Reading at 157¼, Delaware & Hudson at 193, Brooklyn 80¼, Consolidated Gas at 140¾, Missouri Pacific 174, Rock Island 81¾, American Car 13⅞ and the preferred at 82¼. Even Erie made a high record, selling up to 35 on very heavy transactions.

All these records were made in the first half hour of trading and most of them held in spite of profit taking. In several cases improvements were made. Steel common sold up to 58 and Union Pacific crossed 180.

London was cheerful in all departments and sent over somewhat higher prices for American stocks.

On the cotton exchange there was also considerable excitement, every option on the list opening at least ten points higher and some gained as much as fifteen points. In Chicago the wheat market was strong with fractional gains. On the curb many lost Nevada Consolidated, but Amalgamated Central, Inspiration and LaRose were the leaders, the selling at high record prices, with very active markets on the entire list.

Yukon gold advanced slightly for the first time in recent weeks.

DAGGETT COMPANY, CHICAGO, ASSIGNS

CHICAGO, May 12.—George H. Daggett Company of Chicago and George H. Daggett Company of Minneapolis, well-known brokerage houses, to-day closed their doors here, after assigning all of their trades to the Chicago brokerage firm. The notice of the transfer of the Daggett concern's trades in Chicago and the Logan-Bryan-Hutchinson Company for settlement was posted on the Board of Trade to-day. The Daggett concerns were members of the Chicago Board of Trade, Baltimore Chamber of Commerce and other exchanges.

$2,500,000 MELON FOR STOCKHOLDERS

NEW YORK, May 12.—It was learned to-day that the United Metal Selling Company has declared and paid an extra cash dividend of 50 per cent, calling for the distribution of $2,500,000. This melon is supposed to represent part of the proceeds derived by the company from the recent sale of the Raritan Refinery Company to the International Smelting and Refining Company.

EVERY MAN HIS OWN PEARL RAISER. The government's experiments with gem-creating mussels and the plan to place them within the reach of all is detailed in the SUNDAY AMERICAN.

WALL ST. NEWS FOR INVESTORS

WALL STREET, New York, May 12.—Wall Street has not yet learned the danger of setting somebody else to work to do the worrying for it. It used to be certain point to do so. When Harriman went to Mexico the street jumped on Union Pacific and lost its money. When Harriman announced that he would sail for Europe this Summer the Street began selling the stocks Harriman has the money. Judge Wilson's sharp sentence for San Francisco the other day and the Street sold Rock Island and Atchison. Other people's troubles are its pleasantry. When George Blumenthal sailed for Europe they sold Reading. It is up two points.

Edwin Hawley and the Chesapeake & Ohio pool will leave the city to-day for a little excursion that will undoubtedly be of great service to professionals in Wall Street. It may be useful for the Street to remember that Chesapeake & Ohio will probably get its dividend on May 20 at the rate of 4 per cent. That means that the second some operators that there is a very small floating supply of Alton in the Street is really broker cold out Alton up 10 points by buying 20,000 shares.

Harriman stocks have made an impressive demonstration and the bears have gotten a severe punishment in Union Pacific preferred. Taken briefly, they promptly disappeared from the bank books of ordinary investors, thus indicating that it has been accumulated by the insiders. Harriman has been preparing for up to-date demonstration just before his departure for Europe. Reading has been under the wing with the intention of borrowing $150,000,000, and it may be happens to be happens to be happens to

America's Duty to Armenia Calls for Immediate Action

If Europe Will Not Interfere, Let the United States End These Horrors Alone

They tell us that the crisis in Armenia is passed; that the dead are dead, and that nothing can be done.

But we know that murder in Armenia is only out of breath. Its slaughter of a thousand hecatombs has not sated, but whetted, its thirst. Fire is not satisfied with burning, and of the hate engendered by bigotry there is no end.

What an appalling indictment against Christian civilization is being written with the blood of these Armenian martyrs to the Christian faith! Think of it! In the land where the crucified Saviour lived, and died upon the cross, thousands upon thousands who were induced by the Christian missionaries of other lands to embrace His teachings are daily meeting with death in its most terrible form. And in the last moment of consciousness many of them are frenzied by an agony worse than all the physical torture inflicted on them—the knowledge that their wives and daughters are being carried off to be made the victims of an ignominy worse than a thousand deaths.

And before this orgy of massacre and lust the CHRISTIAN WORLD STANDS AN IMPOTENT, IF NOT AN INDIFFERENT SPECTATOR.

There was a time when the Christian world marshalled its warriors to rescue the Holy City from the domination of the infidel. That was a sentiment. But the fires of fanaticism, now flaming in the land consecrated to Christianity by the great apostle Paul, are emblazoning a duty to every civilization that is worthy the name of Christian.

Men may ignore a SENTIMENT without deserving blame, but no man can shirk a DUTY without incurring dishonor.

The duty of Christian civilization to succor the Christians of Armenia is not to be denied. They are entitled to have placed between them and the Moslem fanatics who are seeking their blood the protecting arm of militant Christianity.

Because their policies and their greed have more sway over their thought than their faith or their sense of righteousness, the Christian Powers of Europe are unmoved to action.

Inspired by the same high and noble purpose which led to our interference in Cuba, our organization of the rescue of the Christian missionaries in China who were beleaguered by the terrible Boxers, and our message to Russia that the slaughter of Jews in the realms of the Czar must cease, the government in Washington should immediately notify the Powers of Europe that America expects them to take steps to end these atrocities in Armenia and punish the murderers, and that, failing to arouse them to a sense of their awful responsibility, the UNITED STATES WILL PROCEED, SINGLY AND ALONE, over any and all protest, to bring to an END THESE HORRORS which have shocked mankind and threatened the very foundations of Christian civilization throughout the world.

The disgrace of delayed action cannot be entirely wiped out; the dead cannot be restored to life, but our appeals to you, President Taft, is to make all the amends now possible for the failure of your administration to play its proper part in this great crisis of the world's history.

Let the nearing strains of the Christian patrol sound terror in frenzied brains of Moslem murderers and send a thrill of hope into the sore afflicted hearts of those who are marked as victims of fanatical fury!

Consumption in Old Packs of Cards

And in New Packs Also. Innocent Card Playing Has Killed Thousands

Copyright, 1909, by American-Journal-Examiner

There is room on the tip end of your thumb for enough disease germs to kill a thousand people. Remember that when you play cards.

In a million houses in America you can find old, greasy packs of cards, used day after day. And the backs of the cards are camping grounds for samples of all the microbes that all the members of the family possess among them.

People dealing cards, and children especially, have a habit of moistening the thumb with the lips and then dealing. One member of the family puts his thumb on his lips, then on the backs of the cards, then on the lips again. When the evening of friendly card playing is over, everybody in the family has had an opportunity to collect any possible disease germs lurking in the system of any other member of the family or of any visitor.

Consumption, typhoid and many other diseases MUST BE TAKEN INTO THE SYSTEM. They are not contagious diseases; you can't get consumption as you get smallpox, by simply coming near the patient. Yet, it is not uncommon to have a half dozen deaths from consumption in the same family in one or two generations. A GOOD MANY OF THESE DEATHS HAVE BEEN DUE TO THE FAMILY CARD PLAYING.

The old religious Puritan prejudice against playing cards may have saved many lives, even if it didn't actually save human SOULS. Quite often, when you study religious teachings carefully, you find that those teachings are at least as beneficial physically as they are spiritually. They do as much good to the body as to the soul, or perhaps more.

Everybody knows that the ordinance of the Jewish religion forbidding the use of pork was absolutely necessary when it was issued. Moses issued that order in a semi-tropical country, where there were no ice boxes. He at the same time forbade the eating of oysters—and he saved the lives of millions of Jewish people who, without him, might have died of ptomaine poisoning or trichinosis.

Our good old Puritan objection to card playing saved some of the lives of the faithful beyond question.

Think about this when you play cards; get out of the habit of collecting microbes on the end of your thumb and then swallowing them. It is just as easy to form the habit of not eating microbes as it is to form the habit of putting the germs in your system.

This is especially important to children that often play with grown people. The disease germs perhaps exist in the throat of the grown man or woman. The energy of the grown person keeps down the disease, and it never fully develops. The same germs transferred to the mucous membrane of the child thrive rapidly; many a child undoubtedly has been killed in this way.

Some geese will tell you that there is "nothing in" this germ theory and microbe theory. Other idiots not long ago swore there was no truth in the theory about the world being round.

KEEP OUT DISEASE GERMS AND YOU KEEP OUT DISEASE.

"The Fight for Right"

THE recent utterances of the Pope on woman suffrage is such as would be expected from a conservative source.

The address that he made to the delegation of Italian women that visited him at the Vatican carries with it more meaning for the reason that the Catholic Church accords specially high degree of honor to woman, and honors itself by so doing.

Its disposition thus to distinguish the sex and to cherish what it believes to be the proper prerogatives of the sex is doubtless connected in some measure with the prominence which in its cult is given to the Virgin Mary.

It follows almost of necessity from the attitude of devout reverence that it maintains toward one woman that it should interpret with marked degree of sensitiveness and delicacy the true significance of all women and the sphere within which feminine activities should find their exercise.

While not making the Virgin an object of Protestant worship, it would be perhaps to the enrichment of Protestant thought and religion if with somewhat more of distinctness it recognized in the divine character the existence of feminine qualities.

To Protestants, God is almost exclusively masculine, but people want a divine mother as well as a divine father, and a deified Virgin in a way meets this craving.

This attitude of the Catholic mind must be made account of in the position it assumes toward questions involving feminine adaptations, right and privileges. It helps to explain that position.

Women at the Spring of Social and Family Life

We can see in part why it is that that Church emphasizes woman in her distinct character of femininity, and why it tends, therefore, to hold woman's activities more closely within distinctively feminine limitations.

Those who regret what seems to some to be the rather masculine aggressiveness of certain members of her sex feel that in this matter the Catholic Church, as it has just voiced itself through the Pope, is rendering good service.

It is therefore natural to go on and say that there is no class of women that with a more beautiful spirit of motherly and sisterly ministration care for the poor and the sick than do Catholic women.

Much of the power of that church lies in the quiet, womanly service which they untiringly render. They work at the hidden springs of social and family life.

There is nothing demonstrative in the activities of mercy and of healing in which they engage, but it is all a part of the still-working enginery by which the life and progress of that communion are maintained.

They are not often heard in public places. They do not advertise themselves in dress and demeanor they shrink from public gaze and public remark rather than court it.

Thunder makes a great deal of noise, but it is not one of the things that make trees grow and flowers bloom. That is best done by the sunshine which works with beautiful effect but makes no clatter.

Should Be Eager to Fight the Battle

In the correspondence column of the AMERICAN there recently appeared a letter, most kindly in its intention but in which was one glaring defect, that should receive a word of generous criticism.

That letter contained the following paragraph, written in commendation of one who had been attempting to render some public service: "We ought to be glad that there is a strong, steady-of-nerve champion, who gives us more confidence of victory while he battles for us and we look on."

Now those last four words are a decided anti-climax. We should have supposed that one who had such an appreciation of "strong, steady-of-nerve" people, and who had such a passionate longing for "victory," instead of winding up the sentence with such a lackadaisical phrase as "and we look on," would have written in its place something like this: "and we enlist ourselves standard and share with him the perils and the joys of the conflict."

That would have been something like. What is the use of sounding the bugle call, to battle if those within reach of its ringing notes are simply going to sit around throwing bouquets to the bugler in recognition of the skill with which he can finger its keys?

Many Admire Leaders; Few Enlist Under Them

What is the advantage in a general leaping upon his horse and plunging into the ranks of the enemy, if the crowd he leaves behind creep behind the trees and in sagacious security lay out their patriotism in applauding the horsemanship and prowess of their leader.

Generals cannot win battles. The first and principal office of a general is to set the pace.

A general is something like a precentor. Sometimes the precentor sings and sometimes not, but whether tuneful or dumb his principal duty is to lead time for the chorus, and a queer kind of chorus it would be that should sit round and entertain itself watching him mark off the beats.

Indispensable as good generalship may be, battles are not won by the man who wears the most gold lace, but by the prowess of the rank and file.

It is because there are too few that are ready to recruit for common soldier service, too many who, like the writer of the quoted letter, admire leaders and are fascinated by the roll of the drum and the blast of the trumpet, but who had rather "look on" than buckle on their knapsack and shoulder their gun.
